Speech 'Great'

Green Sparks Geneva Hope

GENEVA (CP)—A buoyant new mood characterized the Geneva disarmament conference Monday night with the unveiling of seven-point Canadian formula designed to break the East-West deadlock on disarmament.

In perhaps the first real show of enthusiasm since the 17-nation conference opened last Wednesday, Western and neutralist delegates warmly welcomed the detailed Canadian proposals for reconciling rival disarmament plans submitted by Russia and the West.

External Affairs Minister Green outlined the first common ground approach in a crisp, straight-forward speech that India's Foreign Minister Krishna Menon called "great."

Some conference circles saw the occasion as something of a diplomatic triumph for Green and his advisers. Adjectives such as admirable and constructive came from the British delegation, the Swedes and the Brazilians.

Foreign Secretary Rusk of the United States and his top disarmament experts, William Foster and Arthur Dean, came over to congratulate Green. So far only the Russians, Poles and the Bulgarians have been unenthusiastic.

Destroy Status Symbol Cigarette Fight Goal

Pay Cut Offered To IWA

VANCOUVER (CP)—B.C. coast lumber operators have proposed a 20 per cent reduction in the pay rate for 700 fallers and buckers.

Their spokesman said Monday wages based on a rate set in 1954 have soared as a result of technological improvements in fallers' and buckers' equipment and that the rate must be re-examined.

The proposed change is one of 15 amendments in the contract put before the IWA.

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Cancer Society will launch an all-out campaign against cigarette smoking this year.

Officials told a meeting of the British Columbia and Yukon division Monday the campaign will be primarily directed at teen-agers.

"Medical evidence is now overwhelming that the less you smoke, the less chance you have of getting lung cancer," said education committee chairman R. C. Kenmuir.

Three Winnipeg doctors said a preliminary survey in the Prairie city showed heavy smoking and low school grade go together. They said the first step in the campaign should be to destroy the status symbol of the cigarette.

Their decision to go back to the bargaining table on this issue was revealed on the fringe of a 17-nation conference sponsored by the United Nations to seek full disarmament.

Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Zorin told a press conference the Soviet Union wanted to talk again about a nuclear test ban. Spokesmen for American and British delegations reported their governments welcomed such a move.

Nevertheless, they have looming before them as large as ever basic East-West differences on enforcing a test ban. The main point is whether detection of violations should be done on a national basis, as the Russians insist, or by international authority, as the West demands.

CONCESSIONS

In the talks coming up, the U.S. and Britain are reported extending to offer some concessions to the Russians for simplification of inspection arrangements. Scientists and political leaders of the two Western powers have tried to strip away any inspection arrangements which now might be regarded as unnecessary in the light of recent improvements in detection techniques.

But Western sources said, the U.S. and Britain stand as firmly as ever behind the principle of international control.

Zorin said reporters his government favors revival of the test negotiations in the broad

Dirty Birds?

Pigeon Potshots Split Oak Bay

Pigeon fanciers and pigeon hunters took verbal potshots at each other during a public hearing last night at Oak Bay.

Pigeons, said Harry Gregson, 2180 Beach Drive, are "dirty birds."

"We've all seen what pigeons do to houses and monuments," he said. Besides, he added, there are the complaints about the birds eating up gardens.

Verne Davidson, 777 Falkland, couldn't see any problem.

"Raising racing pigeons requires thought and initiative," he argued, adding pigeon fanciers allowed their birds only limited exercise and didn't allow them to run loose.

TRIPLE THE SIZE
The first skirmish came earlier in the year after A. R. Cockburn, 1051 Hampshire, asked council to triple the size of pigeon lofts. His son raises racing pigeons. Mr. Cockburn circulated a petition which was signed by more than 100 residents favoring a bylaw change.

Reeve George Murdoch promised both sides would be considered fully.

Capistrano Aflutter As Usual

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP)—San Juan Capistrano's famed swallows arrived here on schedule Monday morning, just as they have nearly every March 19 since the old mission was built in the days of the early Spanish settlers.

The birds' arrival marked the start of the annual St. Joseph's Day Festival.

Public Works Minister Jose Barnet and Health Minister Hector Noblia following the military action in Argentina.

Peronist Landslide

Frondizi Uses Army After Polls Defeat

Troops Take Over Five Provinces

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentine President Frondizi Monday night ordered military commanders to replace the pro-Frondizi governors in five provinces where Peronist candidates won in a landslide election victory Sunday.

Informed sources said it is only a matter of time before similar steps are taken in five other provinces where Peronists were due to assume governorships May 1.

The takeover order came after Argentina's military leaders, bitterly opposed to followers of exiled dictator Juan Peron, pressed Frondizi for drastic action to bar Peronists from governorships and other offices they gained in the stunning election upset.

MILITARY CONTROL

The provinces put under military control are Buenos Aires, Tucuman, Rio Negro, Santiago del Estero and Chaco.

Announced along with the takeover decree was Frondizi's decision to accept the resignations of Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo, Health Minister Hector Noblia and Public Works Minister Jose Mazar Barcos.

CONSTITUTIONAL

Argentina's constitution provides for such intervention to combat subversion or a threat to the republican form of government. Frondizi has reluctantly used it on two provinces in the past.

The 53-year-old Frondizi faced a crisis potentially far more dangerous than that generated when, under prodding by chiefs of the armed forces, he broke diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Cuban regime Feb. 8.

UPROAR CAUSED

Monday's developments brought an immediate uproar from the Peronists, fans of both Frondizi and the United States-backed $20,000,000,000 Alliance-for-Progress program for Latin America to combat communism. Communists were allies of the nationalist-minded Peronists in the election campaign.

Submerged politically since the decade-long regime of dictator Juan Peron was felled by the armed forces in 1955, the Peronists reacted angrily to rumors that federal intervention was planned in the provinces to nullify results of the election.

STRIKES PLANNED

Sixty-two labor unions which supported the Peronists declared they would strike indefinitely in retaliation for the military manoeuvres. Together they claimed almost 2,000,000 members.

Peronist leaders called the election a rebuke for Frondizi's austerity policies and a mandate for recall of Peron, an exile in Spain. They want to put up Peron for president in 1964. Frondizi would not be able to succeed himself.

NOT COMPLETE

Unofficial and incomplete returns gave Peronist parties 2,223,500 votes; Frondizi's Intransigent Radicals 1,851,042 and the anti-Frondizi People's Radicals 1,284,104.

No party approached a working majority of 97 seats in the 193-seat national house of deputies. The Intransigent Radicals took 75, the People's Radicals 51, the Peronists 43 and smaller parties the rest.

Victory Hailed By Peron

MADRID, Spain (UPI)—Former Argentine dictator Juan Peron yesterday hailed the Peronist victory in Sunday's provincial elections in the South American republic as "a triumph of the Argentine people."

DONE NOTHING

In an interview the one-time Argentine strongman said: "I have done nothing, our people has done everything. That is why it is not my victory but the victory of the Argentine people."

DECISION AWAITED

Asked what his plans for the future were now, Peron said his supporters knew "what they have to do."

"They have proved their political maturity," he said. "I shall wait for their decision."

Peron, aged 66, did not seem surprised by his party's triumph. Some have charged that he directed election strategy from Madrid.

MOSCOW (AP)—An electoral commission report said Monday 129,947,205 voters—88.85 per cent of the registered electorate—took part in Russia's parliamentary elections Sunday.

'Use Dynamite'

Comrade's Evidence Commits Freedomite

NELSON (CP)—William Moojelsky, former secretary of the ruling fraternal council of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, was committed yesterday to stand trial on a charge of counselling to commit arson.

He was committed mainly on the strength of evidence given for the Crown by 77-year-old Zakar Barisoff, who was his associate for 12 years and the man he is alleged to have counselled to commit arson.

TRIAL ELECTED

Moojelsky, one-time right-hand man of Freedom spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin, elected trial by judge without a jury. Barisoff, speaking through an interpreter, said no Freedomite is permitted to do anything without the fraternal council's permission.

"I talked to Moojelsky and he gave me certain instructions concerning fires. He gave me instructions to blow, use dynamite or fire."

'COULD HIRE MEN'

Barisoff said Moojelsky told him if he needed money "he would give me $1,000" and that "I could hire men." He said Moojelsky suggested he recruit young men in the movement but this was not done.

Barisoff pointed to the 52-man ruling body as being behind the Cominco power pylon bombing.

He said he was coming forward to tell the truth and that

Gagliardi Refuses To 'Go Native'

People abroad might think B.C. had really gone "native" if government ferries were given Indian names. Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi said yesterday.

"Already there is a feeling abroad that Canada, and particularly British Columbia, is populated by wild natives," he told the legislature. "People think we are living with our scalp bandied down in case we lose them."

The minister was replying to a suggestion from Arthur Turner (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East) that the ferries on the Vancouver-mainland run should be given Indian names.

"What about Tsawwassen?" asked Mr. Gagliardi.

"That's the only one we've got," countered Mr. Turner. "The existing names, such as City of Victoria, are hackneyed and we should change them... I'd even go that far."

Serum Bid

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Immunization serum was taken to a Russian ship—Kinda—off the harbor entrance Monday in an effort to check an outbreak of measles among the crew.

Pollution Foe Fed Up at Slow Action

A member of the city's air pollution committee angrily threatened to resign last night over lack of progress in ridding Victoria of smoke and cinder nuisances.

"I will resign unless there is some definite improvement in the situation," Harold Gregson, 474 Burnside, said bluntly.

"I am just wasting my time as a member of the committee. Tests I have conducted prove the bylaw is not being observed."

"I joined the committee in the hope that I would be able to work more effectively to get rid of the air pollution in Victoria but things seem to be developing mighty slowly."

Mr. Gregson, who has conducted a two-year private "war" against the smoke and cinder nuisances, uses specially-prepared boards to check on "fallout."

The boards are painted with a mixture of white paint and linseed oil which slows up the drying of the paint. The sticky boards are placed outside, point side up, and cinders falling on them are stuck in the paint.

"I got the idea from the smoke inspector of another city," he said. "The black cinders show up well against the white paint."

In September of last year a city official—cinder inspector Thomas Walker—predicted there would be a 50 per cent improvement in six months in the cinder problem.

"According to the tests I have made there seems much doubt that such is the case. I have heard complaints from other residents, also."

"The last time we had a meeting of the air pollution committee was Jan. 21, when we went on an inspection tour of Victoria."

"If the air pollution problem was as good now as it was that day I would be happy."

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Fleesch

There's a great debate going on among American actors about The Method. The Method is the system of training actors developed by the late Russian director Constantin Stanislavski and now taught at the famous New York Actors Studio.

Perhaps half the prominent younger actors—Marlon Brando, Susan Strasberg, Meadeen Stapleton, Sidney Poitier and countless others—are products of The Method.

Stanislavski wrote two famous books about his system, which were published in English a number of years ago. They're called An Actor Prepares and Building a Character. They show, in detail, how an actor should prepare for a part by practically living it during all his waking and sleeping hours and recalling emotional experiences of his own past that would fit the role.

Another Book

New it turns out that Stanislavski wrote a third basic book that deals with the specific methods of rehearsing for a part after the actor is through with his intensive preparation. The book, Creating a Role (Theatre Arts), is now at last available in an English translation; it completes the three-part presentation of The Method as it was written down by the master himself.

The point of Creating a Role is this: When an actor gets down to the business of rehearing a part, he should first of all familiarize himself with the physical actions required. He should learn to stand, walk and run as is necessary in the role.

At the same time the director should show him in detail what the character is trying to do on the stage. There are a number of long examples in the book, where this is demonstrated. In particular, Stanislavski shows how his ideal director (himself) would go about staging Shakespeare's Othello.

Uses Own Words

What it comes down to is something that's utterly paradoxical and upside down. Instead of letting an actor learn his lines and then rehearsing the speaking of these lines on the stage, Stanislavski explains to him in detail what he's supposed to do and say during the time he's onstage and then lets him go through his scenes using his own words first. He goes through the business of emotions of the character again and again until gradually allowed to go back to the text and switch from his own words to those of Shakespeare.

Strain of Big Heart Can Be Temporary

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What is an enlarged heart? Can one live with it?—M. A.

I can't give you a general answer but your doctor can, after examining you.

If the heart is put under some unusual and continued strain, it tends to get larger. Sometimes the strain is relatively temporary—that is, in time it is corrected in one way or another. In such cases, the enlargement may gradually be reduced. Or the enlargement may remain, but it no longer is anything to worry about.

SOME VARIATION

There is some variation in the size of hearts anyway, so in some instances it is difficult to say whether a heart is slightly enlarged or whether it is quite normal, just larger than average. After all, we don't all have feet or hands or shoulders the same size.

Too much puffing and shortness of breath may in a good many cases be natural, built-in warning to the patient that he is straining harder than his heart allows, and he must rest or at least take things easier until his breath comes normally again.

I don't, of course, mean that you should ignore it if you find you have an enlarged heart. It means that either there is or there has been some excessive strain.

You should find out just how much damage there has been, and whether improvement can be made, which many times in the case, and how careful you need to be to relieve the heart of any future strain. Get the facts and act accordingly.

Dear Dr. Molner: My four-year-old son's teeth have turned green. What caused this and what can be done?—M. A.

This discoloration is thought to be due to bacteria that produce a pigment, or color. Both green and brown have been reported. These bacteria are not like disease-producing germs. Cleaning with an abrasive dentifrice may help.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read in your column that a woman was told that using deodorant would stop up the glands and you said it wasn't true.

A few months ago I had the same trouble and the doctor said the deodorant stopped up the glands. I had six abscesses under my arm and spent a week in the hospital.—Mrs. G.A.

I find no reason to believe that deodorants cause abscesses or infections. I will grant that they can tighten up the pores, and if some germs are present, especially the prevalent staphylococcus, the astringent action, tightening the pores, might help trap the germs.

context of the disarmament talks. He suggested appointment of a subcommittee composed of negotiators from the Soviet Union, the U.S., Britain and France.

Since France is boycotting the disarmament conference, Zorin said the Soviet Union was "also ready to continue negotiations" with only the U.S. and Britain.

The 17-nation conference, meeting later, approved the idea of a three-member subcommittee—United States, Britain and the Soviet Union—to work on a nuclear test ban. After the session, Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko and U.S. State Secretary Rusk had a 20-minute talk, presumably on Zorin's ideas.

Zorin insisted that Soviet proposals of last November for national inspection arrangements only limit the basis of a test-ban treaty.

Zorin also argued that the Soviet Union's draft treaty rather than the rival American plan should form the basic document for negotiation by the 17 powers participating in the disarmament talks.

Alberta County Plan Sparks Public Howl

By DON TRIMMER

EDMONTON (CP)—A provincial government proposal that would allow cities to bring municipal and school affairs under a single body has flashed into the hottest political issue in Alberta in a year.

It also has ignited a religious side issue that the government has sought to avoid.

Focal point of the dispute is a government proposal to open the door for urban centres to adopt a county system of local government which would result in school boards being swept out.

The proposal is embodied in a bill now before the legislature, which will be the subject of a special hearing that starts Thursday.

Opponents are advancing many of the arguments also used in 1956 when the legislature passed an act permitting establishment of rural counties. Under the act, 29 of 48 municipal districts have adopted the rural county system of local material, spread of nuclear weapons, reduction of conventional arms and finally nuclear disarmament.

Broadly the idea is to try to get the disarmament talks moving on specific measures. With the eight neutral nations watching, Russia may be reluctant to reject such negotiations, Mr. Right.

New Setup For Boards

government that is responsible for all municipal and school matters. Three more rural counties may be set up during 1962.

In districts outside the county system, which today includes all major urban areas, councils handle all affairs other than schools.

In these areas elected public and separate school boards administer schools and hand the tax bill to the council to collect through property taxes. Taxpayers declare whether their children will attend public or separate schools and are taxed accordingly.

The bill now before the legislature would permit urban centres to adopt the county system.

Gagliardi Backs Off On Bamfield Road

Highways Minister Gagliardi

started to hedge in the legislature yesterday about a projected road to East Bamfield on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

A few days ago he met a Bamfield delegation and indicated the road—only 1 1/4 miles was to be built by the government, and MacMillan Powell would build another 1 1/4 miles for $30,000—could possibly be built this year.

Yesterday he said: "We will have to do further engineering because the route seems prohibitive. We are trying to find another route."

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas—For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss, but is really growing hair.

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If your symptoms indicate that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. This is all the more remarkable in light of the fact that the great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped. But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss?

Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Actually, there are 18 scalp disorders that can cause hair loss. No matter which one is at work, consultants, Box 66701, the cause of your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald, and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. If you still have hair (or at least some fuzz) on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair... now is the time to act.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them information to help them analyze your problem. This information should include how long your hair has been thinning, and whether or not you now have or ever have had any of the following conditions: Do you have dandruff? Is it dry or oily? whether your scalp erupts in pimples or other irritations, does your forehead become oily or greasy? does your scalp itch and how often? and any other information you feel might be helpful. All letters will be answered promptly. Send the above information, and your name and address to Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Box 66701, Houston 6, Texas.

CHINA LAKE, Calif. (AP) — A plucky teen-ager, injured in a plane crash high in the remote Sierras, crawled painfully down a mountainside Sunday night and brought help to his pilot, who lay unconscious more than 10 hours.

James Ronald Aaron, 14, a cadet in the Civil Air Patrol, was on an orientation flight with Patrol Lt. Francis St. Louis, 35, when their light plane crashed at the 6,000-foot level on Owens Peak.

St. Louis was taken to hospital at Ridgecrest, about 20 miles from the crash scene. A doctor said the pilot's condition was satisfactory.

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa — Pawnbroker W. Podolski has opened a car pawning service. He stores hocked cars in a garage near his shop and numbers society people among his customers.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco — Grace Kelly, who gave up a million-dollar film career to become Princess Grace of Monaco, will return to Hollywood this summer to make her final movie.

She will make the picture with director Alfred Hitchcock during a summer vacation in the United States with her husband, Prince Rainier.

The palace announcement caused quite a stir in this tiny Riviera kingdom. Many Monaco women took the attitude that as a mother of two children and wife of their ruler, it was her duty to stay and look after them.

Names in News

In Hollywood, Jay Kantor, an agent who made the arrangements, said he visited the prince and then concluded the talks by long distance telephone.

"A paper has not yet been signed, but our deal has been concluded and it's as good as a written contract," Kantor said.

Princess Grace will play the principal role in a story based on a novel by the English writer Winston Graham, Marnie.

When the princess married Rainier, she was still under contract to make one more film at least for Hitchcock.

LONDON — Queen Elizabeth has invited Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy to have lunch at Buckingham Palace March 28.

LONDON — Australian deputy prime minister Jack McEwen arrived here for the first full discussions at government level with Britain on Common Market threats to Australian trade.

LONDON — Edith Pitt, parliamentary secretary to the health ministry, denied in the Commons that human bones removed during hospital surgery were being used as earrings by nurses.

CHRISTCHURCH, N.Z. — Fisherman Jim Farlington lost his watch in Lyttelton Harbor. Next morning he hauled up a net with 100 flounder and found the watch among them.

VANCOUVER — Promoter George Calhoun abandoned his appeal from a conviction last December on conspiracy and fraud charges arising out of a $385,000 mail order stock promotion.

BONN — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, 85, went to Italy for his annual spring vacation at Cadenabbia on Lake Como. He will be there three weeks.

Sulphur Well Flares

GRAND ISLE, La. (AP) — A burning sulphur well off the Louisiana coast continued to cough flames nearly 100 feet high Monday.

The 1,400-foot well in the Gulf of Mexico, one of the mining world's unique operations, blew out late Sunday. Two hours later it caught fire.

The blast from the gulf's depths melted the 100-foot derrick above the drilling platform and the platform itself was a mass of twisted steel.

Talks Saved By Maulding

LONDON (UPI) — Colonial Secretary Reginald Maulding saved the deadlocked Kenya constitutional conference from breakdown yesterday by announcing to delegates that he would disclose Wednesday his views on the document.

Official sources said Maulding would spend the next 48 hours formulating his ideas on the type of constitution Kenya needs but that he intends to avoid presenting any compromise solution.

Communism Creates 'New Slavery'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John yesterday opened four days of ancient ceremonies for the creation of 10 new cardinals by attacking world communism as a new form of slavery.

"What can we say about the vast regions of the world where the doctrine is fostered and the conviction is harshly imposed than that the skies are closed to the light of grace and every religious and super-human order," the 80-year-old pontiff said in Latin.

He did not mention communism by name. But he said that from those areas "there has risen a threatening storm which has spread great ruin."

OTTAWA — Opposition leader Lester Pearson was confined to his home with a badly bruised ankle.

Arbitrary Action

THE GOVERNMENT'S amending bill to wrap up the B.C. Electric take-over by barring discussion of it in the courts is something new in provincial legislation. It is also something that causes dubiety.

How far Mr. Bennett can make this legislation stick is a matter for constitutional authorities yet to figure out, but at its face value an attempt is obviously being made to put the issue beyond the competence of the courts.

The changed terms of the expropriation merely alter the compensation formula and leave the overall result much the same. What seems unethical are the provisions which bar any legal action by which the take-over can be challenged either as to price or in any other aspect. And this while the B.C. Supreme Court presently has the case before it.

Nothing like the latter has ever been done before and there is the conclusion to be drawn that the government fears an adverse court decision and is determined to muzzle opposition to its plans.

It has to be recognized that officials of the B.C. Power Corporation have mounted a powerful lobby of dissent ever since the B.C. Electric was absorbed as a crown agency last August, and prolonged litigation could stultify and impede the vast power programs now under way. This carries much weight and the government also claims to be protecting the taxpayers against excessive demands.

But it is a serious matter to alter legislation and back-date it in such a way as to prevent recourse by parties feeling aggrieved. It is a disturbing factor to attempt to set the courts at naught by making the government the sole judge of its own actions.

This strikes at a basic principle of appeal against unwise or unjust legislation of any kind.

Most people will be concerned by the trend this indicates on the part of the Bennett regime. It reflects a high-handedness that is not compatible with the fair play to be expected of democratic governments.

Cash in the Sky

THE RACE INTO space may be on the verge of taking a commercial turn. The president of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. J. Alphonse Ouimet, notes that the first test of a direct trans-Atlantic television transmission by satellite will be made in May; he thinks there could be live television coverage of the 1964 Olympics from Tokyo by satellite linkage.

Across the Atlantic there is reported to be concern lest Britain should be left behind in establishing communications systems in the heavens: the earnings of a satellite chain over 20 years could well exceed a billion dollars, according to one estimate.

But how, if such networks are placed in orbit far from the surface of the earth, will the right to receive and use their transmissions be determined and guarded and made to return money to the proprietors?

This aspect must soon intrigue lawyers internationally, if it has not already done so. Technical achievements in rocketry have been tremendous; so, perhaps, will be the legal problems they are on the brink of bringing as commerce looks to space for profit.

Fort Rodd Hill

THE WELCOME announcement that Fort Rodd Hill will be opened to the public this summer as a national historic park should lead to maximum local effort to foster and hasten its restoration and development.

It is beyond reasonable expectation that within four or five months, in time for the rush of visitors resulting from Seattle's Century 21 world fair and Victoria's civic centenary, the old artillery fortification on the western side of the Esquimalt Harbor entrance can be restored sufficiently to be ready for the "animation" suggested by Resources Minister Walter Dinsdale as an ultimate goal, with students in period costume playing the part of troops. This refinement, which so effectively can bring the past to life, may well be an aim for Canada's centenary in 1967, particularly appropriate since Fort Rodd Hill and Flagstaff Lighthouse attached by causeway to the fort site will be a national park.

But with or without portrayal by live characters, tourists increasingly are showing interest in history and the visible reminders of history, and at Fort Rodd Hill many will imagine themselves transported back to days long ago.

Mr. George Chatterton, MP, has suggested that the Capital Region Planning Board may be able to relieve the busy planning staff of the national parks and historic sites division in drawing up plans for restoration of the fort. The idea, one hopes, will find approval in Ottawa, for the local board should feel the impetus of local enthusiasm, and the sooner the development begins the better.

Shirts and Ships

LADIES PERHAPS, and certainly gentlemen who wear nylon shirts, would note with unusual interest that this synthetic fibre material can also be transformed into ship propellers. Thus are the wonders of modern technical processes expanded.

Nylon instead of brass or steel? A revolution in its own small way of shipbuilding practices, and one being invoked by the McKay-Cormack yard here as another example of the diversity of local shipbuilders.

Like the bigger yards in Victoria this smaller plant explores the avenues whereby more orders can be secured and more men kept at work. It has a busy year ahead on the construction of various vessels.

The two major yards, VMD and Yarrows, also have a full-scale program extending into next year and they too widen the range of their activities by industrial fabrication and the application of their skills to new ventures.

It is one of the pleasing aspects of the local scene at the moment that so vitally an important segment of industry should have orders in hand to keep most crews busy. Long may it continue, with the help of nylon or another magic component.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax..."

BY TOM TAYLOR

UNKNOWNST to myself — my attitude I mean — I was standing like a Buddha, arms folded and hands bent. Unconscious-like, you know.

Until a colleague laughed, and, pointing, asked me if I were praying. As it happens I wasn't, albeit it might have been good for me had I been.

I was merely reading another newspaper, spread out in front of me on a lowish table which forced me to lean forward. Still and all it was an attitude, a pose, a mannerism, and I was folding my arms. I have begun in fact to notice that I hug them to my breast rather often, as though not knowing what to do with them.

It's a mannerism, and if I keep it up I shall be typed, perhaps beyond recall.

Most of us are typed, actually. We indulge in all kinds of tiny eccentricities and, the sad part, without awareness of what we're doing. Some people habitually stroke the nose when speaking thoughtfully, for instance. Others walk impudently with their hands clasped behind their backs.

This may be copied in some instances, because Prime Minister Philip walks that way.

Did you ever watch a woman sit with a foot dangling, by the way? Ten to one she'll have the foot bent upwards at an angle that would give a man a cramp. They nearly all do it too. Take note the next time you are in a feminine company and the ladies sit in beauty side by side before you.

That's how they sit, isn't it? Men to the right, women to the left. Or vice versa.

A woman is much more unconscious about these things, I will admit. Look how casually she will slip her shoes off to rest the feet, even on a social occasion. If you could sneak away with all the feminine shoes lying idle out of sight at a symphony concert, for instance, you'd make a fortune.

No wonder the dancers here, what with fancy foot wear designed for looks and not for comfort, yet mildly accomplishes this easiness with complete naturalness.

Man hasn't quite the same savoir-faire.

If you see one sitting elbow on knee and fingers pressed to the forehead it's a good guess he's aping Rodin. This pose makes him look like a thinker. Mind you the sculptor himself must have observed this attitude on the part of the living models who gave him the idea, otherwise he wouldn't have carved his masterpiece.

But his statue has made the pose suspect. I'd be afraid myself now to adopt it, especially after being mistaken for a monk.

Some men keep hitching up their pants; not that these are in danger of slipping. Just a habit. Others are prone to one hand in the pocket; a nautical gesture. The odd chap might be fidgety, or always shrugging his shoulders.

And as you know artificial beards are now growing. Pose, attitude, mannerism: contrived or innocent? Who can tell, when a roan can be caught praying when he isn't.

Report From Ottawa

'Non-Political' Twin

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

A FEW days ago, the annual brief of the Canadian Labor Congress was submitted to the government for consideration and appropriate action.

On this particular occasion, it should be said immediately, the CLC people on hand for the presentation were there as representatives of a large and influential segment of organized labor in Canada, rather than as rival politicians dishing out the earliest possible decision and fall of the Conservative government (to say nothing of the Liberal Opposition).

The brief had been prepared, and was submitted, as that of a labor congress, rather than of an organization which was sponsor and co-founder of the New Democratic Party.

For purposes of this presentation, this other half of the CLC's dual role was as if it had never been.

This, of course, is one of the problems which arise when a labor organization such as the CLC adopts a Castor and Pollux form of existence, with one of the twins interested exclusively in the interests of organized labor, while the other intervenes directly and wholeheartedly in party politics.

The fact that it was the CLC in its best non-political, non-partisan role which was making the submission, was underlined time and again in the brief itself, for the apparent purpose of reassuring the Conservative cabinet ministers who were expected to hear the CLC's counsel and then, presumably, act on it.

No government in its right mind could be expected to accept unthinkingly advice tendered by an organization working zealously for its destruction. But a friendly and non-partisan trade union congress — ah! that's another kettle of fish entirely.

By a singular coincidence, a long section of the brief dwelt on a matter which suggested that the CLC, in its labor congress role, was encountering certain difficulties arising out of the activities of the CLC in its capacity as co-founder of the New Democratic Party.

The brief devoted seven and a half pages to an earnest discourse entitled, fittingly enough: "The Canadian Labor Congress and the Government."

The theme was simple and plaintive. Why have you turned from us? Why do you ignore us? Why are we neglected?

It was a "regrettable fact," as the CLC brief saw it, that insofar as the government was concerned, the CLC now existed only "to be ignored when you are considering issues of national importance."

The Canadian Labor Congress was pained and mystified to find everywhere signs of waning governmental trust and affection.

Time after time, when the government was making appointments "to royal commissions and to consultative and other bodies," the CLC had been "bypassed." Where such appointments had gone to trade unionists, the trade unionists had not had the CLC's stamp of approval.

Were the nominations of the Congress no longer acceptable?

"It has occurred to us," the brief adds towards the end of this section, "that this policy of indifference... may spring from the fact that the Canadian Labor Congress has in the past few years been involved in the formation of a new political party."

The CLC, it was clear, could scarcely bring itself to give credit to this astonishing theory, and had no wish to do so. Yet the facts suggested that there might be something in it.

The CLC had "no apologies" to make for its involvement in the formation of the NDP. But it wanted to make one thing clear.

The Congress is not, nor does it intend to become, an affiliate of any political party.

Including, of course, the New Democratic Party. It might have helped found the NDP. And it might have encouraged member unions to become affiliated. But the Congress itself was, remaining aloof.

There it was. The Congress had only raised this distressing matter out of regard for the public interest, rather than its own well-being, and in the hope that misunderstandings, where they might exist, should be erased.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who had welcomed the CLC delegation, had had to leave, unfortunately, when the time came for the government to make its reply. This chore was handed by Labor Minister Starr.

Mr. Starr expressed surprise at some of the matters covered by the submission. He denied sharply that organized labor was being ignored or neglected. He had in his hand a list of 40 "good trade unionists" who had been appointed to various public bodies since the NDP's formation.

The others? Why, said Mr. Starr, while the CLC's wishes and nominations had been considered and would continue to be considered, the government would not bind itself to accept these, and then alone. No organization, not even the CLC, could claim exclusive rights in this field.

"The government," said Mr. Starr firmly, "must have the right to the final decision."

As far as could be determined, the CLC delegation departed still convinced that the government was, for reasons known only to itself, neglecting, cold-shouldering, by-passing and ignoring the CLC — the non-political, non-partisan CLC twin, that is.

By The Canadian Press

March 20, 1962...

Prime Minister Mackenzie King told Parliament 23 years ago today — in 1939 — Canada would regard any attack on Britain as an attack on the Commonwealth. Within six months the Second World War had broken out and Canada had declared war on the Axis powers.

1945 — German resistance west of the Rhine River collapsed and the end of the Second World War was almost in sight.

This Is a Prelude

By MARQUIS CHILDS

AS seen from the vantage point of ultimate responsibility, what is going on in Geneva is necessarily a prelude to a later confrontation. Somehow, somewhere, sometime in the not-too-distant future President Kennedy will meet Premier Khrushchev.

The president held firmly and consistently to his position that the disarmament conference should not be opened by heads of government. He stood off the Soviet premier in a long exchange of notes on the subject. In the course of this exchange the president suggested that later — perhaps before June 1, the deadline for the disarmament conference to report back to the United Nations — a meeting of heads of government might be possible.

This was made conditional on progress at a lower level. And that condition — it was not in fact a hard-and-fast condition — is being seized on to say that if the president meets Khrushchev short of progress he will have gone back on his word.

But since the ultimate responsibility, for peace or war, life or death for Western civilization, rests on him the president is not likely to be influenced by any past suppositions. While as a realist he will know that the chances of success at the highest level will be small, he nevertheless cannot ignore even the thousand-to-one odds.

The attitude toward summits, for that matter toward confrontation at any level, derives partly out of an ancient suspicion that any American who deals with wily foreigners is bound to come out minus his pocketbook and his virtue.

It is a carry-over from the era of proud isolationism when Uncle Sam stood behind the ramparts of the oceans and warned the wicked power seekers to keep out.

More recently it has been colored by the semantic overtones of that phrase, "summit conference." Anything less than complete agreement in such a lofty ambience would leave the world in a state of shock and despair. This is despite evidence to the contrary.

It is in the summit meeting of 1955 which produced very little in the way of agreement. Out of it came the cultural exchanges with the Soviet Union and relaxation of tension.

President Kennedy met Premier Khrushchev in Vienna last June. They spoke from positions diametrically opposed. Yet it was an opportunity for each man to measure the other. As such the president certainly felt it was a gain and a second meeting, free of the buildup of great expectations, could be equally profitable.

Drives Off Business

Dirge Is No Use

By DAVID GREENIE

WHEN the Atlantic grows lonesome, they speak with two voices. One voice speaks of the area's problems. The other speaks of the ways in which those problems are being overcome.

Consider a recent press dispatch from Halifax which started off: "A booklet released today by the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council foresees chronic unemployment in the Atlantic provinces unless the federal government embarks on a program of regional economic development."

Contrast this with the breezy appeal made recently by the Halifax Board of Trade. "Come to Nova Scotia," it said. "Join the growing number of Canadian firms moving into the rich expanding Halifax-Dartmouth metropolitan area."

You don't have to be a master of psychology to realize that the first statement is the surest way of driving off new industry.

In fact, by perpetuating the old image of an area of economic stagnation, it does a disservice to the people who are helping build the future of the Atlantic provinces.

While APEC was crying the blues, the Halifax Board of Trade and neighboring Dartmouth's Chamber of Commerce were talking up the achievement of attracting 32 new firms to the area last year.

No one can deny that governments have a part to play in helping the economy of an area. They can help create a favorable climate for business.

One example of this is the way in which Industrial Estates, a crown company set up by the Nova Scotia government, has helped new industry find sites and build plants in the province. All told, some 28 companies have been established or helped to expand through this one agency.

There are other examples — like the opening of a regional

The traditionalists, the apostles of conventional diplomacy, oppose such meetings as John Foster Dulles resisted President Eisenhower's bent for a summit. But for a variety of reasons — the trans-Atlantic telephone being one of them — the conventional diplomacy falls short of the demands of a world in crisis. One source of the persistent impatience in the White House with the state department is the feeling that the patterns of the past are locked in the ice of traditionalism.

When Robert F. Kennedy first proposed to make a round-the-world good-will trip the critics were quick to say that this amateur had no business cutting across diplomatic lines. But all the evidence, and some of it from sources outside the American political scene, is to the effect that he did a first-rate job, contributing a great deal to the hope of a peaceful settlement between the Dutch and the Indonesians over West New Guinea. One of the ablest and most experienced foreign diplomats in Washington put it as follows:

"He talked in a completely straightforward way, making no secret of where America's interests lay. He treated the people he met as equals from whom he expected the same frankness in the expression of their viewpoint. This was a refreshing change."

The American stance at Geneva is difficult and precarious. The French have opted out completely. From the Germans hints have come through one channel and another that they might do much better dealing directly with the Russians and perhaps also with the East Germans. The tactic of the diplomatic leak has been used by both Western partners to the irritation of the White House. The British have stood at the other pole, seeming to be willing to make concessions beyond what the president will sanction.

Mr. Kennedy cannot be accused of seeking a summit or a personal confrontation with his opposite number. His tactic is to continue to insist on progress at Geneva as a requisite and to reiterate his initial stand.

But when the chips are down he will not stand on the language of the past nor would he want to. The president is a resolute and an able negotiator. He is thoroughly conversant with every aspect of the problems at hand. And he will be following through on the thousand-to-one chance that the Soviet premier may want to show that he and he alone can reach a compromise agreement where others below him have failed.

LETTERS to the Editor

To be considered for publication in whole or in part letters must be on subjects of general interest, not more than 300 words in length, and if dated with a postmark, must be accompanied by the writer's name and address.

I have been disgusted to read lately of the reception some of Victoria's citizens gave to the picture Mr. Herbert Siebner presented to this city. I know little of art, but I hope I do know something of courtesy, and something, too, of the art of accepting a gift. Certainly, individuals are entitled to their own opinions, but surely opinions have little to do with the city's responsibility in this matter.

I can only hope that Mr. Siebner is a man big enough to take in his stride the utter lack of manners and the extreme discourtesy shown by some of the small people of Victoria. And I hope Victorians wake up to the realization of the artist he is before it is too late and he leaves here—a place where he could live—to find refuge in some city where he is understood and recognized.

(Miss) ANNE MUNDAY,
320 St. Charles Street.

Brush-Doodling

The immediate resignation of all members of Canada Council should be demanded by reason of their grant of $4,000 to one Herbert Siebner, an abstract, non-objective "artist," to enable him to return to Europe to study abstract painting trash there. The taxpayers of Canada surely cannot permit their Canada Council money to be inexcusably wasted on "abstract" brush-doodling....

W. L. PARKER,
P.O. Box 174, Cobble Hill.

Gift Horse

An immigrant and his wife and daughter, all of German origin, last week became Canadian citizens here, as thousands before them. The difference was that he, an artist, donated to the city something he had done himself, as a thank offering to the people of the place of his adoption.

As Professor Tony Emery points out, his merits as a work of art matter not; monetary considerations aside (the value of the gift from this well-known artist being $350 and likely—in the manner of modern art—to be worth 10 times as much tomorrow.)

Are we not entitled to expect that our elected representatives, in accepting the gift, would show courtesy and kindness to these people far from their homeland, and to assure them of our pleasure? In that simple duty the city fathers seem to have signally failed, by allowing it to become a controversial issue.

CLARENCE S. GOODE,
Life Fellow
Royal Society of Arts,
3180 Ripon Road.

High Rises

Your recent editorial on the subject of high-rise apartments is most timely, and I fully concur in your summing up—"There are aesthetic considerations, no less important than tax revenues, if a city is to remain attractive."

The very virtues that make such a development desirable can quickly be destroyed. A good example of this is already apparent in another scenic spot in the Pacific, to wit: Waikiki, Honolulu. High-rise apartments are already blotting out the famous scenic vista of Diamond Head, now destroyed by 25-storey high-rises, with more to come. Needless to say, the city fathers are in quite a dilemma. Having permitted "variances" to previous by-laws controlling such unsuitable developments, they now find their "variances" have become the rule rather than the exception.

This is referred to by our councillors as "bending" the rules. Result: uncontrolled high rises. And the many visitors to Honolulu are now faced with "scenic tropical vistas" of tier upon tier of ugly concrete monstrosities, each one trying to cannibalize the other, competing for whatever view might be left.
S. LANE,
Okla. England Inn.

Welcome Film

I trust that another letter dealing with the film Whistle Down the Wind will not come amiss.

It was recommended to me by Christians and non-Christians; almost certainly for different reasons.

It is bound to be welcomed by all who realize that for health of mind, on which physical health mainly depends, it is essential children should not be bewildered by fantasy.

The child when left to itself learns by observation and experiment—the scientific method. (Obviously it requires sufficient supervision to keep it from serious harm.) When it is forced to believe in, or conform to, that which is unreasonable, it is set on the road to mental illness.

M. N. SHERMAN,
2901 Seaview Road.

Kelsey Bay, Port Hardy

Island-Rupert Ferry Urged by Campbell

The government should provide a ferry service from Kelsey Bay or Port Hardy to Prince Rupert, Dan Campbell (B.C.-Comox) told Highway Minister Gagliardi in the legislature last night.

He said that if Coast Ferries Ltd., now operating the north Island ferry service, is unwilling or unable to provide roll-on and roll-off ferry landings at Kelsey Bay and Beaver Cove, the highways department or toll authority should take over the service.

Mr. Campbell said the time for government action is now.

By July all major communities on the north island will be connected by a network of highways, department roads and logging tote roads.

He also sought a Qualicum Beach bypass road, rebuilding of the highway along the Deep Bay to Bowser section and a new bridge over the Oyster River, but won no assurances.

'Few Firms Go Broke'

It's not necessary for B.C. to have a pre-qualification system to ensure that contractors are financially and technically capable of carrying out road-building contracts. Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi said yesterday.

"Very few firms ever go broke in B.C.," he told the legislature. "Since I've been minister only about 11 firms have had any problems and only three or four have gone broke."

Education Factors

Factors influencing a child's education will be discussed at a meeting of S. J. Willis PTA at 8 p.m. today in the school.

Power Chat Friendly

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Bennett of British Columbia and Finance Minister Fleming, genial and smiling, said Monday they have had friendly talks on the Columbia River power issue and hope to meet again "before long."

They indicated after an hour-long meeting Monday that disposal of Canada's share of the power, generated in the United States from Columbia River storage, is still a stumbling block.

But that was about all they had to report, other than a heavy emphasis on the friendliness of talks held Sunday and again Monday.

Mr. Bennett later flew on to New York for a day before returning to Victoria.

"There is nothing of a definitive nature," said Mr. Fleming. There had been thorough discussion, he said, in parrying a number of pointed questions covering the dispute about exporting a $40-million storage as recommended by Prime Minister Diefenbaker at a conference on a national power grid.

Mr. Bennett and Mr. Fleming agreed that they see eye to eye on the electricity export policy as recommended by Prime Minister Diefenbaker at a conference on a national power grid.

But at the press conference, he called the difference one of emphasis.

Angry Europeans Strike As Pact Ends Rebellion

Christian Fouchet was named high commissioner for Algeria in Paris yesterday after the cease-fire ended the Algerian nationalist rebellion. (AP Photo-fax.)

Eight Girls Later . . .

JEANNETTE, Pa. (AP)—When Lawrence, Minister of Jeannette learned his wife was expecting their first baby, he picked a name for it—Lawrence Richard. But it was a girl. And so was their next baby. And the one after that. Monday, after 14 years and eight daughters, Lawrence Richard finally was born.

'Pink' Tories Denounced By New Party

LONDON (UPI)—The National Fellowship, a new right-wing political grouping, warned last night that the Conservative party would be voted out of office unless it gave up "pink socialism."

The fellowship held two rallies here attended by an estimated 1,000 persons.

The speakers concentrated their criticism on the result of the recent Orkington by-election, in which a Conservative House of Commons seat generally considered "safe" was lost to the resurgent Liberal party in a stunning upset.

ALGIERS (AP)—Europeans opposed to independence angrily greeted the cease-fire ending the long Algerian nationalist rebellion Monday with paralyzing general strikes in all major cities. But for the moment, at least, Algeria was spared the bloodbath many fear will come.

The cease-fire, signed Sunday by French and Algerian Muslim negotiators, went into effect at noon. French headquarters for Algeria reported later:

"All is well."

But the French were referring to the fact that not a shot had been exchanged after the cease-fire between French troops and the Muslim rebels still dispersed in the mountains.

WAR FOOTING

The storm from the right was still blowing, and the European Secret Army ordered its followers on a war footing against the French army and authorities. The secret army has warned it will fight the Algerian nationalists as well in an obvious attempt to wreck the cease-fire and keep Algeria French.

'WILL KEMIES'

Unsettled over the secret army was shown by the Algerian nationalists as machinery was set in motion to install a provisional French-Muslim government to rule until Algerian votes on independence this summer.

Shopping in Rome en route from Tunisia to Morocco, Algerian nationalist Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khadda declared: "The cease-fire has not brought peace to Algeria. There still are enemies of peace there."

The ration booklets necessary to obtain food, soap, detergents and toothpaste have not been received or picked up by all families and it was difficult to determine Monday how smoothly the rationing would function.

Highways Minister Gagliardi told the legislature yesterday B.C. is prepared to start another Trans-Canada Highway in the north from Prince Rupert to McRae and the Alberta boundary through the Yellowhead route.

He said he had approached Ottawa with a $60-80 cost-sharing proposal like the one on the Trans-Canada Highway which completed this year, "but we can't get any positive answers."

Price of industrial shares listed on the Oslo, Norway, stock exchange rose an average 12.8 per cent during 1961.

Ellis Quits, Backs Foulkes

Only two names will come before the voters of Victoria federal riding when they choose a candidate March 26 for the next federal election: Gen. Charles Foulkes and Thomas Foster Isherwood.

A third man in the running, W. Geoffrey Ellis, said last night he had withdrawn.

"I think Gen. Foulkes is the ideal man," he explained.

Sea Road Scheme Favored

A Capital Region Planning Board suggestion to close the gaps in a broken Marine Drive ringing most of Saanich Peninsula was endorsed in principle last night by Saanich council.

Central Saanich will be asked to take similar measures to ensure a Marine Drive from Greater Victoria around the peninsula to the Trans-Canada Highway near Goldstream Park.

Saanich approved the board's recommendation for a 1/2-mile extension of Parker Avenue to the Central Saanich boundary near Livesay Road.

Saanich will also follow board suggestion that it ask the Capital Improvement District Commission to purchase a coastal park strip about 1,100 feet long and 100 feet wide, between the proposed roadway and beach near the Central Saanich boundary.

University To Get Its Way

Streets along the route to Victoria University will lose their identity for a new title, University Way, Oak Bay council agreed last night.

Affected by the change will be Foul Bay Road, Henderson Road and Finnerty Road.

Council was acting on a request by Victoria Chamber of Commerce board of directors that the streets be re-named "in order that there may be a continuous road by this name extending from Gonzales Bay right through to the intersection of Finnerty and Arbutus Roads."

"I'm sure people living on Foul Bay Road would rather have a University Way address," said Reeve George Murdoch. "It would increase their property value," cracked Coun. Cox.

Council also agreed to ask the intermunicipal committee to take appropriate action on the name clash of Pandora Avenue and Oak Bay Avenue, Fort Street and Cadboro Bay Road.

Trustee Miffed

Courtesy Denied

City council thinks a little of Greater Victoria school board it refuses to extend to trustees a handful of top officials even the courtesy of a parking exemption permit.

Trustee Richard Reeve said last night.

The only time he would use the exemption, Mr. Reeve told last night's board meeting, would be when someone stops him downtown to discuss school board business.

This often happens now, he added, and generally results in a meter flag and sometimes a ticket on his car for over-time parking.

"I hope city council will point out to these interested people that in future they should phone me at home," said Mr. Reeve.

Construction is expected to begin within a month on most of the 10 elementary school additions planned for the first phase of the three-year building program in the district.

Principal Resigns

Greater Victoria school board last night accepted without comment the resignation of Frank Rendle, 1949 Kibler, as principal of Mount View High School. Rendle was convicted March 16 in juvenile court of contributing to juvenile delinquency and remanded one week for sentence. His resignation dates back to last Friday. No successor was named.

Buildings and grounds supervisor Sandy Smith said tenders for the George Jay addition will be opened at 5 p.m. Wednesday.

Plans and specifications for additions to Uplands and Marigold are in the hands of board officials and all the others have been promised by mid-April. Other additions will go in at Tillicum, Macaulay, Lake Hill, Glenford, Shelbourne, Quadra and Hampton.

The board will study ways of controlling the flood of visitors expected in Craigdarroch Castle this summer. Under consideration is establishment of an information desk as well as safeguarding school board property.

Trustees have accepted an invitation to take part in ceremonies planned by Society for the Preservation of Craigdarroch Castle April 2 at which Mayor R. B. Wilson will throw a switch to floodlight the buildings.

The buildings and grounds committee will look for ways and means of cutting costs to groups using schools at night.

The board turned down a request from Victoria United soccer club for permission to display posters advertising games in local schools. Trustee David Logan said he felt the board should "stretch a point" to encourage youngsters to engage in "this fine healthy sport." He was voted down because the move contravened board policy.

Manning Urges 'Easy Money'

EDMONTON (UPI)—The royal commission on banking and finance got its first sprinkling of Social Credit ideas Monday when Premier Manning proposed a form of "easy money" for governmental purposes, offset by a tightening of bank credit to guard against inflation.

He said the essential "social credit" requirements of provincial and municipal governments should be met with low-interest loans from the Bank of Canada, thus leaving the existing money market for industry and commerce.

LARGE CREDIT

Mr. Manning said this would mean a large credit expansion but suggested that inflationary pressure could be met in part by forcing the banks to retain more of their funds in reserves, thus limiting to a greater extent their ability to lend money.

He also contended that the inflationary potential would be offset by a production increase made possible when industry and commerce no longer would have to compete in the money market with governments and thus would benefit from lower interest rates.

NO FORMAL BRIEFS

These and other points developed in about an hour's questioning of the Alberta premier by the commission. However, Mr. Manning did not submit a formal brief to the commission and its members did not pursue their line of questioning to any great length.

He was the first premier to appear before the commission, now in the second week of public hearings that will continue across Canada for the rest of the year. Premier Bennett of British Columbia failed to show up at a Victoria sitting last week.

Mr. Manning also called for more governmental control over monetary policy, as now exercised by the Bank of Canada.

He said this also could be done by increasing chartered bank reserves, but did not suggest what the increase should be.

(By law, the chartered banks are required to keep cash reserves equal to eight per cent of their deposit liabilities. The Bank of Canada by altering the chartered banks' cash position, through open market operations, thus can control credit and the money supply.

Five Sons Remanded

NELSON (UPI)—Five Sons of Freedom Doukhobors were remanded without plea for eight days when they appeared in court yesterday on charges of bombing a transmission tower on Kootenay Lake March 6.

Two other Freedomites have been charged with possession of explosives.

Those remanded were Harry Rezansoff, Tom Makortoff,

Philip Arishenkoff, Jack Kalmokoff and John Arishenkoff. They did not ask for bail.

The arrests followed RCMP investigation into the explosion which wrecked the 366-foot hydro tower, 25 miles east of here, causing damage estimated at $300,000.

Russians Seek to Replace International Hockey Head

The world hockey championships had a surprising aftermath yesterday as Tass, the official Soviet news agency, called for a new international hockey league charter and the ousting of Robert LeBel of Chambly, Que., as president of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

Both demands came in a blast at the championships, which finished Sunday with Sweden first, Canada second and the United States third as Canada's Galt Terriers beat the Americans, 6-1.

Russia, a world hockey power, set out the tournament, along with other Iron Curtain countries, as well as highly-rated Czechoslovakia, because the Communist East German team was refused permission to come to the United States. Such permission has been refused since the building of the East-West Berlin wall.

Tass said the Swedes "had no worthy opponents but the Canadians and Americans." "Effective measures against the interference of politics in sports must be adopted at the next congress of the hockey federation," the report said, and added that LeBel is "obviously no man for this responsible post."

Meanwhile, the Swedish champions left for home yesterday, leaving a mournful bunch of Terriers baying in their wake.

"I still say we have a better team than the Swedes," said Canadian coach Lloyd Roubell. "We could beat them seven or eight times no matter where we play. Those double penalties (in the game with Sweden when Terriers lost, 5-3) killed us."

Terriers were still complaining about the officiating, but Canada is liable to have a tougher time getting the title back next year. Site of the tournament will be Stockholm, where the international-style officiating insists on little checking, if any.

Sweden's Lennart Hagggroth was named top goalie, and veteran Swedish forward Sven "Tumba" Johansson was chosen top forward. Johnny Mavayich of the U.S. was pick of the defencemen.

Unofficial scoring champion was Jackie McLeod of the Terriers with 11 goals and eight assists for 19 points.

In Sunday's other games, West Germany beat Finland, 7-1, and Austria trounced winless Denmark, 7-0, in the "B" class.

Local enthusiasm for competitive golf has obviously reached a new plateau with 210 entries for the qualifying round of the Vancouver Island Open match play championship at Uplands Sunday.

In addition to the 210, there were others who wanted to play but didn't get their entries in before the official closure. As it stands, the committee will have to winnow 30 players out of the entry when the draw is made tonight in order to get the field down to the maximum 180 players Uplands can handle.

It is clear that with all local clubs now more or less at full membership and the general standard improving, there is going to be an ever-increasing interest in competitive events.

Not so many years ago, the entry for the Island Open was set at 120. This was adequate at the time, but recently the number wanting to enter has greatly exceeded that limit. The clubs have gone along with it by voluntarily increasing the number of players they will handle in the qualifying round.

But this year's 180 represents about the maximum one course can handle, and it still means a very long day's play at this time of year.

In view of its growing popularity, suggestions have been made for a new format for the Island Open. One suggestion is that the qualifying test should be over 36 holes, using two courses on successive Sundays so that half the field plays on one course one day and on the other the next. In order not to prolong the competition, the number of qualifiers could be dropped from 32 to 16 in each section.

An alternative would be to have each club run a qualifying test for its own members or out-of-town players. With all clubs now on a national rating, it could be done without creating obvious advantages for the members of any one club.

Or it could be done by trimming the number of entries, making only the lower-handicap players eligible for participation.

The Island Open is not unique in this problem of heavy entry. The city amateur entry overflows every year, and the Colonist has an annual headache to figure a way to accommodate all those who want to play in the Christmas Tree Tournament.

Local golfing history was made at Royal Colwood Sunday when Ron MacLeod, Jasper's pro, won the district winter medal for the third time in succession. Other players have won it more often but never more than twice consecutively.

Going into the last round, MacLeod was tied in top place with fellow-pro Laurie Carroll, but the latter blew to 82 and a tie for fourth place, and left MacLeod to run home with a 72 which gave him a three-stroke lead over runner-up Laurie Kerr.

MacLeod's three-round total was 214, while Kerr, who had Sunday's best score, a 71, was 217. Next came Roy Chappell, assistant pro at Victoria, with 76 for an aggregate of 220. This was Roy's best showing so far in the medal and a happy augury to the new season for the little long hitter.

Fourth place was shared by Carroll and his old buddies partner, Doc Bigelow, each with 224. Bigelow had a 76.

Other scores and aggregates: Dick Mann 81-227; R. McKean 78-220; W. Wakeman 83-223; V. Wheatley 83-223; Boyd Brooks 84-234; Lex Sutcliffe 77-235; Ed Varga 87-237; Neil Carlow 93-238 and G. Murphy 85-248.

Scoring was high and caused golfers to remember the old Scots saying "ne'er cast a clout till May is out." A delightfully sunny early morning was followed by a cold wind and rain, and most of the players at Colwood were caught in sleeveless or other light jerseys to complete their rounds in a misery of cold and damp.

Victoria is a quick change artist so far as its weather is concerned and the tournament player who does not go out with weather protection tucked away in his bag is just asking for trouble.

Robert E. Mase, new secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Golf Association, was introduced to directors at the monthly executive meeting Friday in Vancouver. He already has his duties well in hand and progress at the administrative level can be expected.

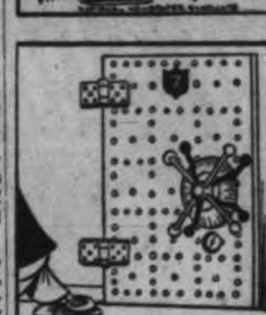

Victoria's centennial celebration committee will give special prizes up to $450 for the B.C. Amateur championship at Victoria Golf Club July 27. With the usual prize fund, the list will be worth over $800 for the year's top event in B.C.

New champions will have to be found for the city junior buttons next fall. Holders Al Manson and Bruce MacFarlane of Victoria club will both be 21 by that time and no longer eligible.

Long reign of Rev. Harry Pike and Jim Dahlis as senior buttons champs ended last week when they were beaten at the 17th by Ted Williams and Tom Whittemore of Uplands.

Yanks Look Scary

Nine American League clubs seem to have nothing to hope for except that history will reverse itself.

Last spring, the New York Yankees won only about one-third of their pre-season games and then went on to win the world series. This spring, the Yankees look as if they are never going to lose.

GOOD ALL OVER

Getting sharp pitching from a dozen or more moundmen ranging from re-tread Robin Roberts to raw rookies, fielding in typical fashion and hitting when it counts, the Yanks have won all nine games they have played to date.

Yesterday, they trampled Milwaukee Braves, 10-4, scoring only in two innings as they built up a 100 lead. On Sunday Chicago White Sox took a 10-3 thumping from the defending champions.

So far, Roger Maris hasn't hit any home runs, but he has been hitting. He had two singles Sunday and a triple and a double yesterday.

NEW NUGGET?

Meanwhile, Chicago Cubs seem to have uncovered another rookie ace in outfielder Lou Brock, who led the class "C" Northern League in hitting last season with a .361 average.

Only 22, Brock hit a home run Saturday, had four singles and a triple on Sunday as the Cubs won their sixth in a row after losing three games by one run.

NOT THE SAME

And Casey Stengel was learning that the New York Mets, one of two new National League clubs, are a far cry from the New York Yankees.

The Mets lost their fifth in a row yesterday despite five-hit pitching by Bob Miller and rookie Bob Bork. The Mets couldn't score off Skinny Brown or rookie Tom Baker, lost, 1-0.

Magistrate Raps Both Lawyers In Delayed Case

Magistrate William Ostler scolded both defence and prosecution counsel yesterday for failure to agree on a date for trial of a woman charged with intimidation.

The magistrate told both counsel the lack of agreement had wasted the time of a number of "people," among them three policemen, who had turned up in court to give evidence.

"It is most inconvenient to have all these officers come here needlessly," said the magistrate. "Most of them are off duty and those that are on duty are urgently needed elsewhere."

The comment came when defence counsel Michael Warren asked for an adjournment for his client, Patrick N. Newman, of HMCS Jonquiere, charged with intimidation.

His request met objections from city prosecutor Angus Smith, who said he had understood the defence would be ready to proceed with the case.

The case was put over to March 22.

Bail of $5,000 was set for a sailor charged with the rape of a navy wife in her Hillside apartment last Friday.

Steven Cassidy is also charged with breaking and entering the apartment of the woman.

No plea was taken when Cassidy appeared before Magistrate William Ostler in police court yesterday.

The magistrate set the date for preliminary hearing for March 26.

Police were called to the Hillside Avenue apartment at 2:30 a.m. Friday after another tenant reported a housewife had been assaulted.

The woman told police a man entered her bedroom through a window and threatened her.

Leonard G. Bell, 24, of Glen Lake, pleaded guilty in County Court yesterday to two charges of breaking, entering and theft.

Bell was remanded until today.

Bell admitted the Feb. 27 $12,000 burglary of the Don Maw restaurant and the Jan. 15 burglary of G. B. Simon jewelry store.

One of two suspects arrested after the early Sunday break-in of the Safeway Store on Tillamook Road will appear in court today.

Oliver Wayne McLellan, 2838 Innes, was remanded without plea or election when he made a brief appearance in Saanich court yesterday.

McLellan and a juvenile were arrested by police shortly after a night security patrolman spotted two youths walking along Burnside near the store.

Saanich police reported a quantity of cigarettes had been stolen from the store.

Michael Kelly, no fixed address, charged with stealing a $16 wrist watch from the Woolworth Store on March 17, will appear for sentence today. Kelly pleaded guilty.

Business Assessment Passes $5,900,000

The city's business tax assessment has risen by $34,000 over last year's figure of $5,866,740.

City rental appraiser Ronald Wells said last night the increase to $5,900,740 was due to new building rather than an increase in rental values of downtown stores.

Last year's business tax levy was 0.14 per cent of the total assessment.

1,000 Shifts Per Day Cost of Tower Blast

TRAIL (CP)—The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. is losing 1,000 shifts daily as a result of the March 6 dynamiting of a 366-foot power tower on Kootenay Lake, president W. S. Kirkpatrick said Monday.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, who is president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and is here from Montreal to address the Trail chamber, said the company hopes to have a temporary aerial power line across Kootenay Lake in the next few weeks.

SOME MONTHS

"However, it will be some months before the regular power lines can be restored," he said.

Mr. Kirkpatrick said it is "distressing and incomprehensible that in this country we have a situation where we find there is this criminal element at work, which seems to be becoming more and more highly organized."

Cominco has tried but failed to get an interview with Premier Bennett concerning the fate of the West Kootenay Power and Light Co., Mr. Kirkpatrick further said.

'PUT OFF STRIKE'

Mr. Kirkpatrick also called on CPR-CNR locomotive engineers to put off their threatened April 12 strike and reconcile their differences with the railway companies.

Edgelow 'Talking Through Bobby Helmet'

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow is "talking through his bobby helmet" in opposing the lease of parkland along the Gorge for an amusement centre, a spokesman for the development company said yesterday.

"At present the land is actually zoned to permit apartments to be built there," said

Milton Tisdale, managing director of Sherwood Forest Parkland Ltd. "Would he prefer to see apartments there?"

"We would actually be preserving this parkland. In fact we will enhance it. We want to have it rezoned to park and recreation use."

Mr. Tisdale will meet Saanich zoning committee Wednesday to submit his application to have the land rezoned. The 11-acre site of wooded parkland stretches along the Gorge from Millgrove to Tillamook. It is owned by the city but is in Saanich.

Mr. Tisdale's company plans to create the legends of Robin Hood and Sherwood Forest in the area, complete with replica of Nottingham Castle, guild shops, children's zoo, open-air theatre and free barbecue pits for patrons. Ald. Edgelow has strongly opposed the leasing of the land to Mr. Tisdale's company and one of the few remaining public access to the Gorge waters.

"He made a statement that provincial and federal aid might not be forthcoming to redevelop the Gorge," Mr. Tisdale said. "Well, both the provincial department of recreation and the department of municipal affairs have seen our plans and they are keen on it."

"Recreation Minister Westwood said he thought they should be all over the province. And we are negotiating a loan from the federally-owned Industrial Development Bank. "We will allow public access to the fishing float by the Gorge bridge, and the outdoor theatre will be available for public and private entertainment."

"The theatre will give us exchange possibilities with Theatre Under the Stars and even Stratford."

"We will employ about 50 people when we open in the summer—college students and local artisans."

"The handicrafts stores on the grounds will be selling goods produced by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the Canadian Artists and Rehearsal Society and the B.C. Handicraft Guild."

Siebner's Painting Core for City Art?

Herbert Siebner's abstract painting of the Inner Harbor could form the nucleus of a city hall collection of art by Victoria residents, Mayor R. B. Wilson suggested last night.

"We have a few very good artists here and it would be a delight to have their work represented in the city hall," he hinted.

As for the painting, he commented:

"I would be very glad to have it in my office."

"And I would like to extend the grateful thanks of the city to the artist for this very fine gesture."

Siebner's painting stirred up a controversy when he presented it to the city Friday, inscribed "With love and thanks to Victoria... where I found something—a place to live." The presentation was made shortly before he became a Canadian citizen.

One Difference Solved

Charity Helpers Line Up For April, May Tag Days

Victoria charitable organizations appear to be ganging up for tag days during April and May.

The problem arose recently when city council pointed out that, under the Municipal Act, it had no jurisdiction over granting permission for tag days on city streets.

Council suggested that organizations get together to plan a tag day schedule.

Two groups planned a tag day May 19 but worked out their differences.

Gorge Road Hospital Auxiliary will hold its day May 19 while the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded moved its to May 12.

Other organizations with tag days scheduled for April and May are the Royal Jubilee Hospital women's auxiliary, Queen Alexandra Scleroderma Junior League, Cerebral Palsy Association and Junior auxiliary to the Protestant Orphanage.

A spokesman for one organization said April and May provided the best weather for tag days and most of the groups doing the tagging shut down in the summer.

Peace Drive Doubles Goal

Enthusiastic support by the people of Greater Victoria has prompted campaign officials of the Canadian Peace Research Institute fund drive to double the residential goal of $12,000. Honorary chairman R. W. Mayhew said the total subscriptions to date of $12,000 are "most encouraging" since they represent an average of $20 per family.

In Esquimalt Council

Wurtele Criticized As 'One-Man Gang'

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele's membership on numerous intermunicipal committees and boards was questioned last night at a meeting of the municipal council.

The matter came up when Reeve Wurtele said he had represented the municipality on the Victoria centennial committee.

"Why Reeve?"

"Aren't we lowering ourselves a little?" Coun. Bert Nelson snapped. "Oak Bay and Saanich only send councillors to this committee. Why should we send our reeve everywhere?"

Coun. Nelson continued: "Far as I'm concerned, we're getting to be a bit of a one-man gang, anyway."

REEVE AGREES

The reeve agreed he represented the municipality on "a great many committees and boards," but that he served on the one in question merely as a matter of convenience to the council.

Seat Open For Bids

Nominations can now be made for a vacancy on Esquimalt council created by the recent retirement of Coun. Vincent Bush.

Nominations may be filed at the municipal hall any time between now and noon March 28, said municipal clerk J. W. Allan, who will be returning office.

No name had been put forward for the council seat as of yesterday afternoon, said Mr. Allan.

Victoria became the new B.C. headquarters for the SPCA yesterday.

The decision to move headquarters here was prompted by the resignation of executive

Celluloid Springs City Locks

A prowler used celluloid to spring the locks on office doors in the Belmont building during the weekend.

It was one of several minor burglaries reported to police yesterday.

The celluloid was used on the locks of the department of fisheries office and the Canadian pensions committee room, both in the Belmont building.

The pensions office lost $50, stolen from a cash box.

A small amount of cash and some stamps were stolen from the other office.

The burglar who broke into the home of Mrs. Dorcas Harvey, 638 Langford, Sunday day totalled his loot in pounds, not dollars. Stolen from a piggy bank was $32 in silver—$23 of it in 50-cent pieces.

Saanich Slams Door On Bennett Bus Talks

It's B.C.'s Pigeon Councillor Claims

Majority of Saanich council last night opposed negotiations with Premier Bennett for a municipal takeover of the B.C. Electric transit system.

Discussion stemmed from a recommendation by Coun. Robert Chard that a Greater Victoria transit body be incorporated and given the power to start a sinking fund with municipalities contributing in proportion.

The money would be kept on hand to deal with intermunicipal transit problems as they arise, he suggested.

RECENT MEETING

A wide-open debate then developed about the recent meeting between Premier Bennett and mayors and reeves of Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver.

Coun. Joe Casey started with "We have no business dealing with it in any shape or form. I don't think it should be discussed at intermunicipal committee. I don't think it should be discussed at all."

VOTED IN FAVOR

Reeve Stanley Murphy countered that Saanich council had voted in favor of setting up an intermunicipal transit study committee.

Coun. Robert Gailer said: "Judging from what I see in the papers, B.C. isn't sure yet whether they've got the B.C. Electric. And if so, they're not sure yet whether they've got the bus service."

THE PIGEON

"They took it over, it's their pigeon," said Coun. Gregory Cook. "They should be stuck with it."

Reeve Murphy said "there is no inclination on the part of those who met the premier to do anything rash."

"I don't think we can consider moral obligations or rash actions," said Coun. Chard.

Reeve Murphy then advised Coun. Chard that "the recommendation shouldn't be made to intermunicipal committee if it doesn't have the support of the council."

Wilson Cool

Mayor R. B. Wilson yesterday threw cold water on Premier Bennett's bus offer and indicated the city might reject it.

"I'm very disappointed the premier has indicated that Garbally Road bus yard is not part of the deal," he said.

"It's an essential component."

Reeve Bennett's offer was to sell only the rolling stock of the bus system—for $1.

... sparks attempt

May 24 City Day At Fair?

Century 21 officials may be asked to honor Victoria on May 24—the anniversary of Queen Victoria's birthday—instead of May 21, when the annual Victoria Day celebrations will be held here.

Announcement was made last week by exhibition officials that May 21 will be Vancouver and Victoria Day at the fair.

But Victoria spokesmen were dismayed at the honor because it clashes with Victoria's traditional celebrations.

E. A. McFayden, vice-chairman of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, said yesterday he will attempt to have the Seattle date changed.

"May 24 is Queen Victoria's birthday—the 133rd anniversary—and it would be ideal," he said last night.

Mr. McFayden is seeking a meeting with Mayor R. B. Wilson to suggest the plan.

The Postman Rang Twice But It Cost Nickel Extra

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

DINE MAIL: A friend of mine mailed off a letter to a relative in Quebec.

About a week later the letter was returned with an inscription that there was no such person at that address.

The sender looked up the address again and saw he'd been right in the first place.

So he scrawled on the envelope: "Right address. Try again."

The post office returned the letter once again.

He had to put another stamp on for the return journey to Quebec.

ABOUT TOWN: Parting of the ways came for muscle-builder Ove Wili and the local television station last week after a nine-month five-day-a-week show designed to bring fitness to baby housewives.

The end of the affair was precipitated by Ove himself when he casually mentioned he thought it about time he was paid something for his work!

A beautifully ladylike Canadian fashion, this coat dress of Arnel and viscose fabric is perfectly at home on the terrace of Sam Lord's in Barbados. The check fabric illustrates the trend to decorative and textured fabrics for summer.

A sundress which illustrates the trend to more decorative and feminine fashions is made in a new pink and white baby cord weave of Arnel and cotton, its texture enhanced by white piping and lace butterfly appliques. This easy care Canadian fashion was photographed in Barbados.

Embroidery and Patterns In New Wash-Wear Fabrics

Fashions forecasts of growing consumer demand for decoration in fabrics are confirmed by the variety of new textures appearing in Arnel weaves for spring and summer.

Popular wash and wear shirtings have an entirely new look with the addition of embroidery decoration in stripes, checks and other patterns. New seersucker weaves and baby cord textures have been created with blends of Arnel and cotton.

Jacquard patterns give the surface interest to easy care knits and even, otherwise smooth, weaves of Arnel and viscose have the look of textures with glen plaid and houndstooth check patterns.

Fashion's newest citrus or parrot colors, lemon, lime, peach, and strawberry pink look particularly delectable in the textured weaves, especially when combined with frosty whites. The important aqua blues and neutral beiges look newest when combined with brownish tones as they are in plaid and check fabrics.

Canadian spring and summer fashions made from these fabrics highlight the decorative theme with soft feminine touches: appliques, flounces, boleros, scarves and stoles. Graceful pleated skirts are an important part of the feminine look and the shirtings which have become so familiar to us in spanking white are now also seen in the new citrus shades.

All properly finished Arnel fabrics will keep pleats through many washings, have remarkable resistance to wrinkling, can be tumble-dried, are easy to iron when necessary and will not shrink or stretch out of fit.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a registered nurse, 24, and engaged to marry a wonderful man who is the same age.

He told me several months ago that because of a childhood illness he may never be able to have children. I have accepted this and am sure we can have a good marriage in spite of it.

A few close relatives have warned me against marrying a man who cannot give me a family. They say I will regret it later. One aunt in particular refused to help my mother with the wedding plans (she is a catwren) when I told her my little secret.

I plan to marry Carl anyway. Do you think I will be sorry? R.N.

Dear R.N.: If you love Carl, marry him. You can consider adoption later.

As for your relatives, why did you blab to them in the first place? This matter comes under the heading of strictly personal business. You were grossly unfair to your fiancé to give the "little secret" such wide circulation.

It is entirely possible that one day you will have children of your own and then, of course, you could be the target for some ugly speculation. Keep quiet from now on.

Dear Ann Landers: The past four years have been unbearable. I'll admit that I'm the one who starts all the fights at our house. My husband doesn't say a word. The reason I blow up so often is because I am not getting a square deal.

My husband and I run a business together. In addition to taking care of the house and children I put in a full day at the business.

The trouble sets in when my husband takes time off in the middle of the afternoon to entertain himself. A few afternoons a week he leaves to play golf or maybe just to go home and take a nap. (The doctor says golf is good for his heart.)

I've thought of walking out on the business and making him hire someone to do my job but I can't. The business just barely makes a living for us. If we had to pay an outsider a full-time salary we would go in the red.

My husband's health isn't too good, but sometimes I think he uses this as an excuse to loaf. What can I do?—STUCK-BUT-GOOD.

Dear Stuck: You can change your attitude. Not so much for his sake but for your own. Your resentment is probably more damaging than the hard work.

When a husband is not in good health his wife must often pull a double load. Of course it's tough on her, but life can hand down some punishing decisions. Consider this your cross to bear and accept it with grace.

Another case for a Scotia BANK Home Improvement Loan

Maybe a loose shingle started it. Or worn-out weather stripping. Or a gnawing band of termites. Whatever it was, plugging a leak properly can be expensive—and, of course, the longer it's left, the more costly a repair becomes. This goes for peeling paint, crumbling concrete, and missing mortar too.

Yes, keeping a house in shape sometimes costs a lot of money, and occasionally it may cost more than you have on hand. What then? The answer may be a Scotia Bank Home Improvement Loan... money you can borrow at low interest for repairs... or for extra bedrooms, a garage, a carport, modern heating, new and up-to-date plumbing—things that maintain or improve your home as an investment. Just call at your nearest branch of The Bank of Nova Scotia. See the manager. He will welcome the opportunity to discuss how a Scotia Bank Home Improvement Loan can help you.

Welfare, Educational Work in Lead

A total of $4,416 was spent on welfare work it was reported by Mrs. B. T. Shaw, convener of services at home and abroad, at the annual meeting of the Municipal IODE held yesterday afternoon and evening at the C & C Hall.

Of this amount $2,701 was spent in Victoria. Clothing and bedding was sent to provincial chapter for shipment overseas and many Victoria families were helped with both new and used clothing.

Twenty-six food hampers were distributed at Christmas. Food parcels and cod liver oil were given to needy persons and patients at the DVA Hospital were visited each month and given little extras.

Books and magazines were also taken to the DVA Hospital. Articles of used furniture and wood and coal were supplied to needy families. Special treatment for a retarded child was provided and a mother of five children taking a special course was assisted. One chapter continued to help blind persons and another has been painting and repairing Sunshine Camp.

Many books were sent to the Canadian service personnel in Germany and a parcel went to an adopted child in Malta.

Support, at a cost of $388, was continued to Overseas Relief, Shipping Fund, and Korean Projects.

Orphanage, Mental Health Association, Unitarian Service, Cerebral Palsy Clinic and the Jubilee Cancer Fund.

Mrs. J. A. Dunn in presenting the educational secretary's report, stated that a total of $3,835 had been spent on this work.

Scholarships and bursaries were presented to students and books, magazines and magazines subscriptions, records, calendars, prizes and gifts were supplied to 14 adopted schools in isolated areas and as well as Victoria schools.

Dear Mrs. Packer: When I spots from window panes has been cleaning windows last week I found they were spotted with tiny paint splatters. I remembered someone telling me they could be removed easily and without scratching the glass by sliding a penny or a nickel back and forth over the surface. So I just put a penny flat against the glass and rubbed it over the paint spots and was delighted to find they came right off. I find your column very helpful and thought perhaps some of your readers would be interested in this tip.—MARY M.

Many thanks, Mary, for your kind letter. Removing paint

Mail Those Letters

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRES
In Sunday's column I told the story of the Gloriosa Daisy, a new and very lovely perennial flower developed after 40 years of painstaking work from a common roadside weed, the Black-Eyed Susan. I offered to send a packet of seeds of this glowing flower, so foolproof and easy to grow, to any of my readers who would like to try them out.

If you haven't ordered your free seeds yet, I suggest you get your letter away as soon as possible. While we have a pretty big bag of seeds, they are scarce and in short supply, and if we run out, we may have to substitute a different flower. Don't forget the stamped and self-addressed envelope when you write, and if you don't feel like writing a letter asking for your seeds, you can use the coupon at the foot of this column.

Before we get started on how to grow the Gloriosa Daisy, I would like to clear up one point in connection with this coupon business. Judging by my mail, some folks seem to think that this free seed offer is confined to regular Colony subscribers, and if you don't have a coupon, you can't have any seeds.

That isn't the idea at all. We'll send the free seeds to anyone who loves flowers, whether or not you take the Colony. You don't actually need the coupon—a letter asking for the seeds will serve just as well. The coupon is inserted purely for the convenience of folks who don't have the time or don't want to bother writing a letter.

Now that you get the picture, I'd like you to spread the word among your friends and neighbors who may not be Colony subscribers and therefore wouldn't know about these free seeds. Tell them that they, too, can have a free packet of Gloriosa Daisy seeds, with or without a Colony coupon.

As I have pointed out before, there are no strings on this offer. There are no dimes, no boxtops, no proof of purchase, no "reasonable facsimile" no gimmicks of any kind. The only thing I ask is that you supply the stamp and addressed envelope to carry your free seeds back to you; in other words, enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope in your letter. When it arrives here, our Colony girls will open your letter, take out your self-addressed envelope, slip in a packet of seeds, and mail it right back to you.

In case you didn't see Sunday's column, I'd better explain once again that the Gloriosa Daisy is a true perennial, long-lasting and permanent, and while the top-growth dies down in the late fall, the roots survive through the winter and come up again in the spring, making an even bigger and better display every year. But unlike most perennials, the Gloriosa Daisy blooms the first year from seeds started in early spring, so there is no long wait to enjoy the startling beauty of the flowers.

The plant stands three feet tall, covering itself in late summer with long-stemmed flowers 5 to 7 inches across, with pointed petals in yellow, orange, mahogany, red, bronze and gold, and all with chocolate-brown centres. Like all hybrid plants grown from seed, there is considerable variation in the coloring, and some flowers will turn up with several of these glowing colors combined in the one bloom.

Tomorrow we'll get on with the business of starting the seeds—how to sow, what kind of soil to use, how to water, how to plant out, and all the rest. I suggest you clip and save these articles so you'll have them on hand when your free seeds arrive.

Florida Snake Pits for Sale

SOMEWHERE IN FLORIDA—The magic word in Florida these days is "land." According to the exciting advertisements on the highways, in newspapers and magazines, anyone who is willing to plunk $10 down and pay $10 a month can in no time at all become another William Zeckendorf or Conrad Hilton.

No matter who you are, the land fever grips you as soon as you get off the plane, and we must admit we were no exception. Not wanting to be left out of what is potentially the greatest "growth investment in the United States" since fallout shelters, we swiped 10 bucks from our kid's toy bank and rushed out to the nearest real estate development office.

The director shook our hand. On his desk was a map, in scale, of his latest development, an entire town.

"You're very lucky," he said. "We have only one house left."
"Could I get out and see it?" we asked excitedly.

"Why would you want to do that?" he asked. "Don't you believe what you see here on my desk?"

"Well," we said, "I thought it would be fun to go out and see the place for myself."

"It's a pretty long trip," he said. "It's about 100 miles inland, but can only travel by day because of the alligators."

"Alligators?"

"Of course. You have to have alligators to eat the mosquito snakes or they'd be all over the place."

"Snakes?"

"Only during the wet season," he said. "You hardly ever see them unless there's a wildcat around."

"Wildcats?"

"They won't give you any trouble unless you get caught in the quicksand."

"Quicksand?"

"Only in certain places. Now if you'll just sign this paper."

"Wait a minute," we said. "I'm not sure I want to live there, and besides, are you sure the town exists as you have it there?"

"It's not completed yet, but we've already sprayed the malaria mosquito ponds, and by next month we should have the wild boar traps all dug. In a year it will look just like this mockup."

"You mean the church isn't even built yet?"

"Well, no. But don't forget this is the church of your choice, and if it was already built, it wouldn't be the church of your choice then, would it?"

We admitted it was true. Just then the phone rang. We couldn't help overhearing the conversation.

"Yes, Mr. Ford. You'd like to build a factory on my tract? It's going to be difficult. I have a man in my office now and I've already promised him the five acres. Perhaps he'll get in touch with you. Sorry, Goodbye."

We plunked down the $10 and signed the deed.

We've been trying to get in touch with Mr. Ford ever since, but he always seems to be out. Once we got him on the phone though, and tell him about the land we own, he's really going to have to pay through the nose.

Hollywood Today

All Quiet on Roman Front

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—This is what I think is the truth of the Elizabeth Taylor-Eddie Fisher situation. It's obvious they have had some recent problems. But at this moment, all is quiet on the Roman front, and they are trying to keep their marriage intact—at least until Late is finished. This will give Eddie a chance to get his own career going again and to dispose of some of the properties he bought as starting vehicles for his wife. . . Reminds me of when Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz decided to call it a day. Their financial "togetherness" was so complicated, it took an army of accountants six months to say what was his and what was hers.

Eleanor Powell has always had great pride and dignity. I am sure ex-husband Glenn Ford's romance with very young Candice Bergen has hurt her greatly. And this could be why she has dropped the Ford from her future and legitimized the name of Eleanor Powell.

Robert Frazer starred in the original film version of Ernest Hemingway's story, The Short Happy Life of Ernest Hemingway with Susan Hayward and Jean Bennett. Monty Clift now wants to play the lusty villain with Sophia Loren as his wife.

Ariane Dahl says that her debut in Las Vegas scores her. "It's the first time in 16 years that I have sung and danced." With Ariane's face, she could just stand there, without singing, dancing, or speaking a word.

Robbena McKenna had to leave in a hurry at the beginning of the first bullfight she attended in Spain.

Indian Film Set

A documentary film on the famous Indian collection of the late Dr. C. F. Newcombe will be shown at the annual meeting of the B.C. Historical Association, Victoria branch, in the Douglas Building cafeteria at 8.15 Thursday.

last night, Rise Stevens proved first lady of opera.

She was at her impressive best in arias from Carmen and Samson and Delilah, and one could have wished for more from her operatic literature than was provided in the set program.

POWER IN VOICE

Miss Stevens has tremendous power in her voice and superb control but this is not displayed to the fullest advantage in the short items which fail to allow for a complete emotional development.

The songs, Rabbit at Top Speed and Mausfallen-Spruechlein, both in what might loosely be called the novelty vein, certainly amused the large audience. Miss Stevens' power was in full evidence in O Liebliche Wangen and her vocal dexterity in Mausfallen-Spruechlein.

THREE SOLOS

Miss Stevens' very accomplished accompanist was James Shomate who, in addition to playing the entire concert in this capacity, opened the half with three solos.

Strike at Experts Ends in Big Mill

SIDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Employees of the rod and bar mill department of Dominion Steel and Coal Corp.'s steel mill voted 73-30 Monday to return to work.
A strike in the rod and bar mill over efficiency experts last week quickly spread through the 2,900-man plant, tying it up for the first time since 1946.

Brandon Case

Mounties Probe Use Of Jail Inmates' Cash

WINNIPEG (CP)—An RCMP investigation has been ordered into the handling of inmates' money at Brandon jail.

Acting-premier Gurney Evans told the legislature Monday a former jail inmate, A. E. Mathews, had complained to the attorney-general's department several weeks ago that a guard had failed to repay part of a $125 loan.

The department, said Mr. Evans, told Mr. Mathews to speak to a lawyer.

Following a reporter's inquiries, the guard was asked to resign by jail superintendent John McPherson. He did.

In 13 months, Mr. Mathews managed to spend nearly all of a $1,900 inheritance received while he was in jail.

The prisoner got his money by writing cheques payable to the assistant warden, who endorsed them, cashed them and credited them to his jail account.

Most was spent on doing

Three Grits Seek Place In Riding

ASSINIBOIA, SASK. (CP)—Two, and possibly three men will seek the Liberal nomination for Assiniboia federal constituency when the party holds its nominating convention in this southern Saskatchewan town today.

In the running will be Hazen Argue, former CCF national leader and CCF-NDP House leader, who defected Feb. 18 and now sits as a Liberal member.

Opposing him will be Andy Medwid, a Goodwater, Sask., school teacher.

Also mentioned as a possible contender is Radville, Sask., druggist V. B. Kimball. He has not confirmed his intention to seek the nomination.

A public meeting will follow the nomination meeting. Walter Gordon, federal Liberal executive member, will be guest speaker.

Three Wills Play Part In Estate

REGINA (CP)—J. G. Crepeau of Prince Albert said in Saskatchewan Court of Appeal Monday if a parish priest's $42,000 bequest to the Roman Catholic bishop of Prince Albert was not valid, two other wills would have to be considered.

In one, the priest, Rev. George Emile Touchet, who died in 1958 after serving as parish priest at Duck Lake, Sask., for 25 years, left the estate to his father and in the second will left it to his brother.

The court is hearing an application by the father, Honore Touchet, and the brother, Lucien Touchet, to overrule a Saskatchewan Court of Queen's Bench judgment and declare the bequest to the bishop is not a valid charitable trust.

Varsity Choir To Sing Here

The a cappella choir of the University of the Pacific, Calif., will give a performance in the auditorium of the S. J. Willis Junior High School at 8 p.m. March 27.

Directed by J. Russell Bodley, the choir will include songs by Bach, Debussy and Brahms and folk songs and Negro spirituals in its program.

Mother's World Shatters

CHILLIWACK (CP)—Six members of one family were shattered in a few horrifying seconds. She crawled uninjured from the demolished car to find her husband and children dead or dying on the road.

"She wasn't crying," said her brother, Wally Schwab, after he visited her in hospital.

The world of Mrs. Alma Hack, 36, of Vancouver, was where she is being treated for shock. "She said she had tried to but couldn't."

The truck jackknifed down the highway, ripped out a power pole, and crashed down an embankment on its side.

Dead are William Hack, 47; his children Diana, 7, Karen, 9, Ronald 17, and Doreen, 20; and his father Jacob Hack, 70.

Truck driver Frank Thiessen, 38, suffered lacerations. Bill Bennett, a passenger in the car, is in fair condition in hospital.

The CPR in 1961 operated a total of 17,096 miles of track in Canada, with 3,200 bridges.

Douglas Predicts:

More MPs Possible

OTTAWA — Redistribution of parliamentary representation in the House of Commons following the 1961 census may bring about an increase in the number of members, T. C. Douglas, New Democratic Party leader declared here Monday. It would be much easier for an independent commission rather than try to overcome all constitutional difficulties, he told a press conference.

Mr. Douglas said he thought an increase in the number of MPs would be "a good thing." He pointed out that some constituencies today were of a very great size and that increasing the number of members should enable the extra

Halfway to Target — Douglas on NDP

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Party is halfway to its target of 200,000 union member affiliations, party leader T. C. Douglas said Monday at a press conference.

Mr. Douglas, here for a brief conference with the eight OCF-NDP members of Parliament and to film a TV broadcast, discussed his recent ramblings across Canada recruiting support for the new party. But he steered clear of forecasting how the party will fare in the next general election.

The party, he said, will contest practically every constituency and "we'll go out to get the largest group in the House," he told reporters.

He had found things better than he expected in his visits to every province since his election as leader at the founding convention of the party last August.

But the political picture was a patchwork such as he had never seen before in Canada. No part of the country seemed to be moving in any particular direction politically.

It was the former Saskatchewan premier's first visit to the capital since the defection of Hemen Argue, who quit as OCFconstitution which might now operate unfairly.

The first was the so-called "15 per cent rule." It was adopted in 1952 and set out that no province at any distribution could lose more than 15 per cent of its representation in the House. The second was the "senatorial cushion." It prevented any province having fewer members of Parliament than it had senators.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union got down to international trade Monday and approved a statement saying Canada's trade eggs should not all be in one basket. The statement rejected any idea of Canada entering the European economic community or a customs union or free trade area with the United States which could lead to absorption or political union with the U.S.

Test-Ban Bid Big Three Try Again For Treaty

GENEVA (CP)—The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union announced willingness Monday to resume negotiations for a nuclear test-ban treaty.

Their decision to go back to the bargaining table on this issue was revealed on the fringe of a 17-nation conference sponsored by the United Nations to seek full disarmament.

Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Zorin told a press conference the Soviet Union wanted to talk again about a nuclear test ban. Spokesmen for American and British delegations reported their governments welcomed such a move.

Nevertheless, they have been loath before them as large as ever basic East-West differences on enforcing a test ban. The main point is whether detection of violations should be done on a national basis, as the Russians insist, or by international authority, as the West demands.

CONCESSIONS

In the talks coming up, the U.S. and Britain are reported intending to offer some concessions to the Russians for simplification of inspection arrangements. Scientists and political leaders of the two Western powers have tried to strip away any inspection arrangements which now might be regarded as unnecessary in the light of recent improvements in detection techniques.

But, Western sources said, the U.S. and Britain stand as firmly as ever behind the principle of international control.

Zorin told reporters his government favors revival of the test negotiations in the broad

Speech 'Great'

Green Sparks Geneva Hope

GENEVA (CP)—A buoyant new mood characterized the Geneva disarmament conference Monday night with the unveiling of seven-point Canadian formula designed to break the East-West deadlock on disarmament.

In perhaps the first real show of enthusiasm since the 11-nation conference opened last Wednesday, Western and neutralist delegates warmly welcomed the detailed Canadian proposals for resuming disarmament plans submitted by Russia and the West.

CRISP SPEECH

External Affairs Minister Green outlined the fund-common ground approach in a crisp, straight-forward speech that India's Foreign Minister Krishna Menon called "great."

Some conference circles saw the occasion as something of a diplomatic triumph for Green and his advisers. Adjectives such as admirable and constructive came from the British delegation, the Swedes and the Brazilians.

REDE SILENT

Foreign Secretary Rusk of the United States and his top disarmament experts, William Foster and Arthur Dean, came over to congratulate Green. So far only the Russians, Poles and the Bulgarians have been unenthusiastic.

Bay council tried to make up its mind whether to tamper with the municipal pigeon by-law.

Pigeons, said Harry Gregson, 2160 Beach Drive, are "dirty birds."

EATING UP GARDENS

"We've all seen what pigeons do to houses and monuments," he said. Besides, he added, there are the complaints about the birds eating up gardens.

Verne Davidson, 777 Falkland, couldn't see any problem.

"Raising racing pigeons requires thought and initiative and develops responsibility," he argued, adding pigeon fanciers allowed their birds only limited exercise and didn't allow them to run loose.

TRIPLE THE SIZE

The first skirmish came earlier in the year after A. R. Cockburn, 1031 Hampshire, asked council to triple the size of pigeon lofts. His son raises racing pigeons. Mr. Cockburn circulated a petition which signed by more than 100 residents favoring a bylaw change.

More than 40 people were on hand last night when council was handed a petition containing 62 names opposing any change in the bylaw.

Reeve George Murdoch proposed both sides would be considered fully.

Capistrano Aflutter As Usual

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP)—San Juan Capistrano's famed swallows arrived here on schedule Monday morning, just as they have nearly every March 19 since the old mission was built in the days of the early Spanish settlers. The birds' arrival marked the start of the annual St. Joseph's Day Festival.

Public Works Minister Jose Barnet and Health Minister Hector Noblia following the military action in Argentina.

Frondizi Uses Army After Polls Defeat

Troops Take Over Five Provinces

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentine President Frondizi Monday night ordered military commanders to replace the pro-Frondizi governors in five provinces where Peronist candidates won in a landslide election victory Sunday.

Informed sources said it is only a matter of time before similar steps are taken in five other provinces where Peronists were due to assume governorships May 1.

The takeover order came after Argentina's military leaders, bitterly opposed to followers of exiled dictator Juan Peron, pressed Frondizi for drastic action to bar Peronists from governorships and other offices they gained in the stunning election upset.

MILITARY CONTROL

The provinces put under military control are Buenos Aires, Tucuman, Rio Negro, Santiago del Estero and Chaco.

Announced along with the takeover decree was Frondizi's decision to accept the resignations of Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo, Health Minister Hector Noblia and Public Works Minister Jose Mazar Barnet.

CONSTITUTIONAL

Argentina's constitution provides for such intervention to combat subversion or a threat to the republican form of government. Frondizi has reluctantly agreed to accept Peronists in the past.

The 53-year-old Frondizi faced a crisis potentially far more dangerous than that generated when, under prodding by chiefs of the armed forces, he broke diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Cuban regime Feb. 8.

UPROAR CAUSED

Monday's developments brought an immediate uproar from the Peronists, fans of both Frondizi and the United States-backed 530,000,000 Alliance-For-Progress program for Latin America to combat communism. Communists were allies of the nationalist-minded Peronists in the election campaign.

Submerged politically since the decade-long regime of dictator Juan Peron was felled by the armed forces in 1955, the Peronists reacted angrily to rumors that federal intervention was planned in the provinces to nullify results of the election.

STRIKES PLANNED

Sixty-two labor unions which supported the Peronists declared they would strike indefinitely in retaliation for the military maneuvers. Together they claimed almost 2,000,000 members.

Peronist leaders called the election a rebuke for Frondizi's austerity policies and a mandate for recall of Peron, an exile in Spain. They want to put up Peron for president in 1964. Frondizi would not be able to succeed himself.

NOT COMPLETE

Unofficial and incomplete returns gave Peronist parties 2,221,995 votes; Frondizi's Intransigent Radicals 1,531,542 and the anti-Frondizi People's Radicals 1,384,194.

No party approached a working majority of 97 seats in the 192-seat national house of deputies. The Intransigent Radicals took 73, the People's Radicals 57, the Peronists 43 and smaller parties the rest.

Victory Hailed By Peron

MADRID, Spain (UPI)—Former Argentine dictator Juan Peron yesterday hailed the Peronist victory in Sunday's provincial elections in the South American republic as "a triumph of the Argentine people."

DONE NOTHING

In an interview the one-time Argentine strongman said: "I have done nothing, our people have done everything. That is why it is not my victory but the victory of the Argentine people."

DECISION AWAITED

Asked what his plans for the future were now, Peron said his supporters knew "what they have to do." "They have proved their political maturity," he said. "I shall wait for their decision." Peron, aged 68, did not seem surprised by his party's triumph. Some have charged that he directed election strategy from Madrid.

MOSCOW (AP)—An electoral commission report said Monday 139,947,206 voters—99.55 per cent of the registered electorate—took part in Russia's parliamentary elections Sunday.

'Use Dynamite'

Comrade's Evidence Commits Freedomite

NELSON (CP)—William Mooljesky, former secretary of the ruling fraternal council of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, was committed yesterday to stand trial on a charge of counselling to commit arson.

He was committed mainly on the strength of evidence given for the Crown by 77-year-old Zakar Barisoff, who was his associate for 12 years and the man he is alleged to have counselled to commit arson.

TRIAL ELECTED

Mooljesky, one-time right-hand man of Freedom spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin, elected trial by judge without a jury. Barisoff, speaking through an interpreter, said no Freedomite is permitted to do anything without the fraternal council's permission.

"I talked to Mooljesky and he gave me certain instructions concerning fire. He gave me instructions to blow, use dynamite or fire."

'COULD HIRE MEN'

Barisoff said Mooljesky told him if he needed money "he would give me $1,000" and that "I could hire men." He said Mooljesky suggested he recruit young men in the movement but this was not done.

Barisoff pointed to the 32-man ruling body as being behind the Cominco power pylon bombing.

He said he was coming forward to tell the truth and that

If the government wanted his help "it was fine." He said, "Our people, aside from the committee (fraternal council) do not want to leave anything unsaid in regard to Doukhobor burnings."

Gagliardi Backs Off On Bamfield Road

People abroad might think B.C. had really gone "native" if government ferries were given Indian names, Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi said yesterday.

"Already there is a feeling abroad that Canada, and particularly British Columbia, is populated by wild natives," he told the legislature. "People think we are living with our scalps battered down in case we lose them."

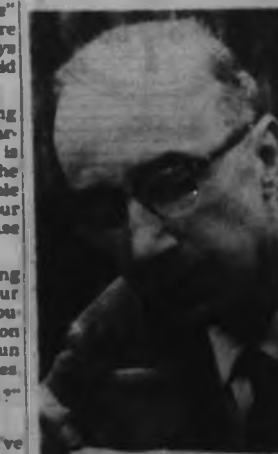

The minister was replying to a suggestion from Arthur Turner (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East) that the ferries on the Vancouver-mainland run should be given Indian names.

"What about Tsawwassen?" asked Mr. Gagliardi.

"That's the only one we've got," countered Mr. Turner. "The existing names, such as City of Victoria, are hackneyed and we should change them ... I'd even go that far."

Pollution Foe Fed Up at Slow Action

A member of the city's air pollution committee angrily threatened to resign last night over lack of progress in ridding Victoria of smoke and cinder nuisance.

"I will resign unless there is some definite improvement in the situation," Harold Gregson, 474 Burnside, said bluntly.

"I am just wasting my time as a member of the committee. Tests I have conducted prove the bylaw is not being observed."

"I joined the committee in the hope that I would be able to work more effectively to get rid of the air pollution in Victoria but things seem to be developing mighty slowly."

Mr. Gregson, who has conducted a two-year private "war" against the smoke and cinder nuisances, uses specially prepared boards to check on "fallout."

The boards are painted with a mixture of white paint and linseed oil which shows up the drying of the paint. The sticky boards are placed outside, paint side up, and cinders falling on them are stuck in the paint.

"I got the idea from the smoke inspector of another city," he said. "The black cinders show up well against the white paint."

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

There's a great debate going on among American actors about The Method. The Method is the system of training actors developed by the late Russian director, Constantin Stanislavski and now taught at the famous New York Actors Studio.

Perhaps half the prominent younger actors—Marlon Brando, Susan Strasberg, Maureen Stapleton, Sidney Poitier and countless others—are products of The Method.

Stanislavski wrote two famous books about his system, which were published in English a number of years ago. They're called An Actor Prepares and Building a Character. They show, in detail, how an actor should prepare for a part by practically living it during all his waking and sleeping hours and recalling emotional experiences of his own past that would fit the role.

Another Book

Now it turns out that Stanislavski wrote a third basic book that deals with the specific methods of rehearsing for a part after the actor is through with his intensive preparation. The book, Creating a Role (Theatre Arts), is now at last available in an English translation; it completes the three-part presentation of The Method as it was written down by the master himself.

The point of Creating a Role is this: When an actor gets down to the business of rehearing a part, he should first of all familiarize himself with the physical actions required. He should learn to stand, walk and run as is necessary in the role.

At the same time the director should show him in detail what the character is trying to do on the stage. There are a number of long examples in the book, where this is demonstrated. In particular, Stanislavski shows how his ideal director (himself) would go about staging Shakespeare's Othello.

Uses Own Words

What it comes down to is something that's utterly paradoxical and upside down. Instead of letting an actor learn his lines and then rehearsing the speaking of these lines on the stage, Stanislavski explains to him in detail what he's supposed to do and say during the time he's onstage and then lets him go through his scenes using his own words first. He goes through the business of expressing the actions and emotions of the character again and again until gradually allowed to go back to the text and switch from his own words to those of Shakespeare.

Strain of Big Heart Can Be Temporary

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: What is an enlarged heart? Can one live with it?—B. K.

I can't give you a general answer but your doctor can, after examining you.

If the heart is put under some unusual and continued strain, it tends to get larger.

Sometimes the strain is relatively temporary—that is, in time it is corrected in one way or another. In such cases, the enlargement may gradually be reduced. Or the enlargement may remain, but it no longer is anything to worry about.

SOME VARIATION

There is some variation in the size of hearts anyway, so in some instances it is difficult to say whether a heart is slightly enlarged or whether it is quite normal, just larger than average. After all, we don't all have feet or hands or shoulders the same size.

Too much puffing and shortness of breath may in a good many cases be natural, built-in warning to the patient that he is straining harder than his heart allows, and he must rest or at least take things easier until his breath comes normally again.

I don't, of course, mean that you should ignore it if you find you have an enlarged heart. It means that either there is or there has been some excessive strain.

You should find out just how much damage there has been, and whether improvement can be made, which many times is the case, and how careful you need to be to relieve the heart of any future strain. Get the facts and act accordingly.

Dear Dr. Molner: My four-year-old son's teeth have turned green. What caused this and what can be done?—M. S.

This discoloration is thought to be due to bacteria that produce a pigment, or color. Both green and brown have been reported. These bacteria are not like disease-producing germs. Cleaning with an abrasive dentifrice may help.

Dear Dr. Molner: I read in your column that a woman told that using deodorant would stop up the glands and you said it wasn't true.

A few months ago I had the same trouble and the doctor said the deodorant stopped up the glands. I had six abscesses under my arm and spent a week in the hospital.—Mrs. G.S.

I find no reason to believe that deodorants cause abscesses or infections. I will grant that they can tighten up the pores, and if some germs are present, it especially the propionibacterium acnes, the asstringent action, tightening the pores, might help trap the germs.

context of the disarmament talks. He suggested appointment of a subcommittee composed of negotiators from the Soviet Union, the U.S., Britain and France.

Since France is boycotting the disarmament conference, Zorin said the Soviet Union was "also ready to continue negotiations" with only the U.S. and Britain. (In Paris, government sources said there would be no comment on Zorin's proposal unless it came in the form of a formal note from Russia).

IDEA APPROVED

The 17-nation conference, meeting later, approved the idea of a three-member subcommittee—United States, Britain and the Soviet Union—to work on a nuclear test ban. After the session, Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko and U.S. State Secretary Rusk had a 30-minute talk, presumably on Zorin's ideas.

Zorin insisted that Soviet proposals of last November for national inspection arrangements only form the basis of a test-ban treaty.

Zorin also argued that the Soviet Union's draft treaty rather than the rival American plan should form the basic document for negotiation by the 17 powers participating in the disarmament talks.

Alberta County Plan Sparks Public Howl

By BOB TRIMBLE

EDMONTON (CP)—A provincial government proposal that would allow cities to bring municipal and school affairs under a single body has flashed into the hottest political issue in Alberta in a year.

It also has ignited a religious side issue that the government has sought to avoid.

Focal point of the dispute is a government proposal to open the door for urban centres to adopt a county system of local government which would result in school boards being swept out.

SPECIAL HEARING

The proposal is embodied in a bill now before the legislature, which will be the subject of a special hearing that starts Thursday.

government that is responsible for all municipal and school matters. Three more rural counties may be set up during 1962.

In districts outside the county system, which today includes all major urban areas, schools handle all affairs other than schools.

In these areas elected public and separate school boards administer schools and hand the tax bill to the council to collect through property taxes. Taxpayers declare whether their children will attend public or separate schools and are taxed accordingly.

Gagliardi Refuses To 'Go Native'

Highways Minister Gagliardi started to hedge in the legislature yesterday about a projected road to East Bamfield on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

A few days ago he met a Bamfield delegation and indicated the road—only 1½ miles was to be built by the government and MacMillan-Powell would build another 1½ miles for $30,000—could possibly be built this year.

Yesterday he said: "We will have to do further engineering because the route seems prohibitive. We are trying to find another route."

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a Texas firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment that is not only stopping hair loss, but is really growing hair.

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If your symptoms indicate that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 30 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this method unless the treatment worked. This is all the more remarkable in light of the fact that the great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped. But how can any man or woman be sure what is actually causing their hair loss?

Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Actually, there are 18 scalp disorders that can cause hair loss, and address to Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Box 68801, Houston 6, Texas.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants will supply you with treatment for 30 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them information to help them analyze your problem. This information should include how long your hair has been thinning, and whether or not you now have or ever have had any of the following conditions: Do you have dandruff? Is it dry or oily? whether your scalp erupts in pimples or other irritations, does your forehead become oily or greasy? does your scalp itch and how often? and any other information you feel might be helpful. All letters will be answered promptly. Send the above information, and your name and address to Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Box 68801, Houston 6, Texas.

Russians Seek to Replace International Hockey Head

The world hockey championships had a surprising aftermath yesterday as Tass, the official Soviet news agency, called for a new international hockey league charter and the ousting of Robert LeBel of Chambly, Que., as president of the International Ice Hockey Federation.

Both demands came in a blast at the championships, which finished Sunday with Sweden first, Canada second and the United States third as Canada's Galt Terriers beat the Americans, 6-1.

Russia, a world hockey power, set out the tournament along with other from Curtin countries, as well as highly rated Czechoslovakia, because the Communist East German team was refused permission to come to the United States. Such permission has been refused since the building of the East-West Berlin wall.

Tass said the Swedes "had no worthy opponents but the Canadians and Americans." "Effective measures against the interference of politics in sports must be adopted at the next congress of the hockey federation," the report said, and added that LeBel is "unwilling to resign his post."

Meanwhile, the Swedish champions left for home yesterday, leaving a mournful bunch of Terriers baying in their wake.

"I still say we have a better team than the Swedes," said Canadian coach Lloyd Roubell. "We could beat them seven of eight times no matter where we play. These double penalties (in the game with Sweden when Terriers lost, 5-3) killed us."

Terriers were still complaining about the officiating, but Canada is liable to have a tougher time getting the title back next year. Site of the tournament will be Stockholm, where the international style officiating insists on little checking, if any.

Sweden's Lennart Hagroth was named top goalie, and veteran Swedish forward Sven "Tumba" Johansson was chosen top forward. Johnny M. Jankoff of the U.S. was picked as the defenceman.

Unofficial scoring championship in the championship class was won by Jackie McLeod of the Terriers with 11 goals and eight assists for 19 points.

In Sunday's other games, West Germany beat Finland, 7-1, and Austria trounced winless Denmark, 7-0, in the "B" class.

Three Schools From Island In Hoop Hunt

Yanks Look Scary

Nine American League clubs seem to have nothing to hope for except that history will reverse itself.

Last spring, the New York Yankees won only about one-third of their pre-season games and then went on to win the world series. This spring, the Yankees look as if they are never going to lose.

GOOD ALL OVER

Getting sharp pitching from a dozen or more moundmen ranging from re-tread Robin Roberts to raw rookies, fielding in typical fashion and hitting when it counts, the Yankees have won all nine games they have played to date.

Yesterday, they trampled Milwaukee Braves, 10-4, scoring only in two innings as they built up a 10-0 lead. On Sunday Chicago White Sox took a 10-3 thumping from the defending champions.

So far, Roger Maris hasn't hit any home runs, but he has been hitting. He had two singles Sunday and a triple and a double yesterday.

NEW NUGGET?

Meanwhile, Chicago Cubs seem to have uncovered another rookie ace in outfielder Lou Brock, who led the class "C" Northern League in hitting last season with a .361 average.

Only 23, Brock hit a home run Saturday, had four singles and a triple on Sunday as the Cubs won their sixth in a row after losing three games by one run.

NOT THE SAME

And Casey Stengel was learning that the New York Mets, one of two new National League clubs, are a far cry from the New York Yankees.

The Mets lost their fifth in a row yesterday despite five-hit pitching by Bob Miller and rookie Bob Botz. The Mets couldn't score off Sidney Brown or rookie Tom Baker, lost, 1-0.

THE PALMER METHOD

by Arnold Palmer

THE CHIP IS THE GREAT EQUALIZER

The golfer who gets the ball up to within one-half distance of the hole from 20 yards on in is the big winner. For the average golfer, who aims the green more often, most depend plenty on good chips.

Use any iron you wish, but aim to land the ball on the green. Play the ball off the left foot; make sure your hands are ahead of all times, including at address.

The closer you get to the green, the less lefted club you can use. For instance, with no trouble between you and the green, a 9-iron could be used from 20 yards, but a 3-iron would be the better bet, say, two feet off the green.

Don't let your wrists break at impact—keep the left wrist, arm and hand especially firm. Keep the clubhead low along the ground during the short follow-through. As in golf, there is little body motion.

United Match On Tap

Victoria United steps back into the Pacific Coast Soccer League picture Saturday at Royal Athletic Park—exactly one month after its last league match.

United was due to play North Shore in a Province Cup match. But the league schedule was changed again, and Vancouver Canadians are coming for a league fixture.

United has won its first four league matches in the second-half schedule without giving up a goal.

Columbus, which beat St. Andrew's 5-1 Sunday, is only three points back, although it has played one more game. And Firefighters, the team manager Wally Milligan figures United will have to beat out, is four points back with a game in hand.

"The layoff hasn't done us any good, and I don't know if the boys can get all their drive back by Saturday," Milligan said. "But after letting themselves get beat 3-0 by a district league pickup team they ought to be mad enough to play their best."

Milligan admitted the change in schedule gives United a break. It will be one more game in which they can use fullback Ron Jenkins, who leaves at the end of the month.

Jenkins' last game will be in Vancouver March 31 against Firefighters, where Milligan figures the whole second-half race could be decided.

"If we win those next two," he says, "we'll take a lot of catching."

In Vancouver Sunday, St. Andrew's were no match for Columbus' first-half champions, especially since they had to use 17-year-old juvenile goalie Ed Christian in place of regular Terry Osmerman, who was taken ill before the game.

John Copuzzi scored three goals for Columbus. Normie McLeod got the others for Columbus. Winston Clayton scored for St. Andrew's.

Canadian Accuracy Astounds Opponents

EDINBURGH (CP)—Canada's curling champions, the Richardsons from Regina, continued to awe spectators and opponents alike with their amazing accuracy as they marched to a fourth straight win in the Scotch Cup series between four national champions.

With skip Ernie Richardson making 90 per cent of his shots and his club almost as good, the Canadians scuttled Sweden, 24-4. In the four games they have played, 72 points for an average of 18 a game and have yielded only 20.

Just the same, the possibility of a playoff still existed. Fran Klefman's United States champions from Hibbing, Minn., stayed in the running Monday with a 14-5 rout of Scotland.

With two games left for each rink, the U.S. is 3-1, Scotland 1-3 and Sweden 0-4.

Canada plays the U.S. Tuesday morning and winds up scheduled play against Scotland in the afternoon.

City Curlers Lose In 14-End Windup

COURTENAY (Special)—Finals of the annual ladies' bonspiel at the Comox Valley Curling Club featured a 14-end game which was the smallest fraction of an inch from needing a 15th end.

It came in the "A" event, and the game was won by a Port Alberni rink skipped by Evelyn Strzaker, 11-10, over Flora Martin of Victoria.

ALMOST NEEDED IS

Mrs. Strzaker tied it on the 12th end but no one could score on the 13th. Mrs. Martin had to hit and roll with her last shot on the 14th, and as it turned out several measurements later, didn't quite make it.

The umpire finally decided that Mrs. Strzaker's rock was the closer to the centre.

In the other three finals, Nanaimo rinks were the big winners. There were all-Nanaimo finals in "B" and "C" events but Audrey Isaacs of Vancouver came through against a Nanaimo rink in "D" final.

All finals produced close games. Jean Barber defeated Doris Plan, 13-8, in "B" event, but not for the last end. In "C" event, Helene Henry edged Min Holm, 10-9, and it was 10-9 in "D" for Mrs. Isaacs over Helen Wilson.

Winners:

Portland Record Now at 282,466

NORTHERN DIVISION	W	L	T	Pts
Seattle	10	0	0	20
Portland	9	1	0	18
Vancouver	8	2	0	16

Buckaroos set a new record last season of 283,327, and had surpassed that total in their 34th home game.

SOUTHERN DIVISION	W	L	T	Pts
Portland	10	0	0	20
Seattle	9	1	0	18
Vancouver	8	2	0	16

Defeat, first in eight games for the Totems, just about killed off Seattle hopes of a first-place finish in Northern Division. With three games left for each club, Edmonton Flyers lead by four points.

BEALS GRAB EDGE

However, San Francisco Seals won a big one in their battle to get the last playoff spot in the Southern Division when they beat Vancouver Canucks, 3-0.

Seals are now two points ahead of Los Angeles Blades with three games left for both clubs. Both play the Buckaroos twice on home ice and Blades play the Seals in San Francisco in the other game.

AT THE 19th With Harry Young

Local enthusiasm for competitive golf has obviously reached a new plateau with 210 entries for the qualifying round of the Vancouver Island Open match play championship at Uplands Sunday.

In addition to the 210, there were others who wanted to play but didn't get their entries in before the official closure. As it stands, the committee will have to winnow 30 players out of the entry when the draw is made tonight in order to get the field down to the maximum 180 players Uplands can handle.

It is clear that with all local clubs now more or less at full membership and the general standard improving, there is going to be an ever-increasing interest in competitive events.

Not so many years ago, the entry for the Island Open was set at 120. This was adequate at the time, but recently the number wanting to enter has greatly exceeded that limit. The clubs have gone along with it by voluntarily increasing the number of players they will handle in the qualifying round.

But this year's 180 represents about the maximum one course can handle, and it still means a very long day's play at this time of year.

In view of its growing popularity, suggestions have been made for a new format for the Island Open.

One suggestion is that the qualifying round should be over 36 holes, using two courses on successive Sundays so that half the field plays on one course one day and on the other the next. In order not to prolong the competition, the number of qualifiers could be dropped from 32 to 16 in each section.

An alternative would be to have each club run a qualifying test for its own members or out-of-town players. With all clubs now on a national rating, it could be done without creating obvious advantages for the members of any one club.

Or it could be done by trimming the number of entries, making only the lower-handicap players eligible for participation.

The Island Open is not unique in this problem of heavy entry. The city amateur entry overflows every year, and the Colonist has an annual headache to figure a way to accommodate all those who want to play in the Christmas Tree Tournament.

Local golfing history was made at Royal Colwood Sunday when Ron MacLeod, Jasper's pro, won the district winter medal for the third time in succession. Other players have won it more often but never more than twice consecutively.

Going into the last round, MacLeod was tied in top place with fellow pro Laurie Carroll, but the latter blew to 82 and a tie for fourth place, and left MacLeod to run home with a 72 which gave him a three-stroke lead over runner-up Laurie Kerr.

MacLeod's three-round total was 214, while Kerr, who had Sunday's best score, a 71, was 217. Next came Roy Chappell, assistant pro at Victoria, with 76 for an aggregate of 220. This was Roy's best showing so far in the medal and a happy augury to the new season for the little long hitter.

Fourth place was shared by Carroll and his old buttons partner, Doc Bigelow, each with 224. Bigelow had a 76. Other scores and aggregates: Dick Munn 81-227; R. McKean 79-220; W. Wakeham 83-233; V. Wheatley 83-233; Boyd Brooks 84-234; Lex Sutcliffe 77-233; Ed Varga 87-237; Neil Carlow 83-238 and G. Murphy 85-243.

Scoring was high and caused golfers to remember the old Scots saying "a'er cast a clout till May is out." A delightfully sunny early morning was followed by a cold wind and rain, and most of the players at Colwood were caught in sleeveless or other light jerseys to complete their rounds in a misery of cold and damp.

Victoria is a quick change artist so far as its weather is concerned and the tournament player who does not go out with weather protection tucked away in his bag is just asking for trouble.

Robert E. Mase, new secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Golf Association, was introduced to directors at the monthly executive meeting Friday in Vancouver. He already has his duties well in hand and progress at the administrative level can be expected. . . . Victoria's centennial celebration committee will give special prizes up to $450 for the B.C. Amateur champion ship at Victoria Golf Club July 27. With the usual prize fund, the list will be worth over $500 for the year's top golf event in B.C. . . . New champions will have to be found for the city junior buttons next fall. Holders Al Munson and Bruce MacLeod of Victoria club will both be 21 by that time and no longer eligible. . . . Long reign of Rev. Harry Pike and Jim Dahl as senior buttons champs ended last week when they were beaten at the 17th by Ted Williams and Tom Whittemore of Uplands.

Edgelow 'Talking Through' Bobby Helmet'

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow is "talking through his bobby helmet" in opposing the lease of parkland along the Gorge for an amusement centre, a spokesman for the development company said yesterday.

"At present the land is actually zoned to permit apartments to be built there," said

Milton Tisdale, managing director of Sherwood Forest Parkland Ltd. "Would be prefer to see apartments there."

"We would actually be preserving this parkland. In fact we will enhance it. We want to have it remain as park and recreation use."

Mr. Tisdale will meet Saanich zoning committee Wednesday to submit his application to have the land rezoned.

The 11-acre site of wooded parkland stretches along the Gorge from Millgrove to Tillicum. It is owned by the city but is in Saanich.

Mr. Tisdale's company plans to recreate the legends of Robin Hood and Sherwood Forest in the area, complete with replica of Nottingham Castle, guild shops, children's zoo, open-air theatre and free barbecues for patrons.

Ald. Edgelow has strongly opposed the leasing of the land to Mr. Tisdale's company on grounds it is a public park and one of the few remaining public access to the Gorge waters.

"He made a statement that provincial and federal aid might not be forthcoming to develop the Gorge," Mr. Tisdale said.

"Well, both the provincial department of recreation and the department of municipal affairs have seen our plans and they are keen on it."

"Recreation Minister Westwood said he thought they should be all over the province. And we are negotiating a loan from the federally-owned Industrial Development Bank.

"We will allow public access to the fishing fleet by the Gorge bridge, and the outdoor theatre will be available for public and private entertainment."

"The theatre will give us exchange possibilities with Theatre Under the Stars and even Stratford."

"We will employ about 30 people when we open in the summer—college students and local artisans."

"The handicrafts stores on the grounds will be selling goods produced by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society and the B.C. Handicraft Guild."

Siebner's Painting Core for City Art?

Herbert Siebner's abstract painting of the Inner Harbor could form the nucleus of a city hall collection of art by Victoria residents, Mayor R. B. Wilson suggested last night.

"We have a few very good artists here and it would be a delight to have their work represented in the city hall," he hinted.

As for the painting, he commented:

"I would be very glad to have it in my office."

"And I would like to extend the grateful thanks of the city to the artist for this very fine picture."

Siebner's painting stirred up a controversy when he presented it to the city Friday, inscribed "With love and thanks to Victoria... where I found something—a place to live." The presentation was made shortly before he became a Canadian citizen.

One Difference Solved

Charity Helpers Line Up For April, May Tag Days

Victoria charitable organizations appear to be ganging up when city council pointed out for tag days during April and that, under the Municipal Act, it had no jurisdiction over granting permission for tag days on city streets.

Council suggested that organizations get together to plan a tag day schedule.

Two groups planned a tag day May 19 but worked out their differences. Gorge Road Hospital Auxiliary will hold its day May 19 while the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded moved its to May 12.

Other organizations with tag days scheduled for April and May are the Royal Jubilee Hospital women's auxiliary, Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League, Cerebral Palsy Association and Junior auxiliary to the Protestant Orphanage.

A spokesman for one organization said April and May provided the best weather for tag days and most of the groups doing the tagging shut down in the summer.

Peace Drive Doubles Goal

Enthusiastic support by the people of Greater Victoria has prompted campaign officials of the (Canadian Peace Research Institute) fund drive to double the residential goal of $12,000. Executive chairman H. W. Mayhew said the total subscriptions to date of $12,000 are "most encouraging" since they represent an average of $20 per family.

Casey Leads Opposition

Saanich Slams Door On Bennett Bus Talks

It's B.C.'s Pigeon Councillor Claims

Majority of Saanich council last night opposed negotiations with Premier Bennett for a municipal takeover of the B.C. Electric transit system.

Discussion stemmed from a recommendation by Coun. Robert Chard that a Greater Victoria transit body be incorporated and given the power to start a sinking fund with municipalities contributing in proportion.

The money would be kept on hand to deal with inter-municipal transit problems as they arise, he suggested.

RECENT MEETING

A wide-open debate then developed about the recent meeting between Premier Bennett and mayors and reeves of Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver.

Coun. Joe Casey started with "We have no business dealing with it in any shape or form. I don't think it should be discussed at intermunicipal committee. I don't think it should be discussed at all."

VOTED IN FAVOR

Reeve Stanley Murphy countered that Saanich council had voted in favor of setting up an intermunicipal transit study committee.

Coun. Robert Ostler said: "Judging from what I see in the papers, B.C. isn't sure yet whether they've got the B.C. Electric. And if so, they're not sure yet whether they've got the bus service."

THEIR PIGEON

"They took it over, it's their pigeon," said Coun. Gregory Cook. "They should be stuck with it."

Reeve Murphy said "there is no inclination on the part of those who met the premier to do anything rash."

"I don't think we can consider moral obligations or rash actions," said Coun. Chard.

Reeve Murphy then advised Coun. Chard that "the recommendation shouldn't be made to intermunicipal committee if it doesn't have the support of the council."

Wilson Cool

Mayor R. B. Wilson yesterday threw cold water on Premier Bennett's bus offer and indicated the city might reject it.

"I'm very disappointed the premier has indicated the Garbally Road bus yard is not part of the deal," he said.

"It's an essential component."

Premier Bennett's offer was to sell only the rolling stock of the bus system—for $1.

Fears Groundless

Garage Pit Afire But Brother Safe

A young Saanich man had a bad scare for a moment last evening when he thought his brother was trapped in a flaming garage pit.

Fred Wright, 1230 Reynolds, was standing outside the house about 7:30 p.m. when he heard a strange "click" and then an explosion from the garage.

He ran around to find flames blazing from a pit beneath a truck, where his brother Lorne had been working.

It wasn't until he rushed into the garage that he found his fears were groundless. The brother appeared from somewhere else and the two pushed the truck clear of the pit while Saanich firemen extinguished the blaze.

E. A. MCFAYDEN ... sparks attempt

SUMP PUMP

Lorne had been draining gasoline from the old truck into a pan in the pit. There is a sump pump in the pit and it is believed that, in Lorne's absence, the pump started up and ignited the gasoline.

Only damage was to the truck. The cab was seized and windshield broken by flames.

Aquarium Society

Victoria Aquarium Society will hold a meeting in Norway House, 1110 Hillside Avenue, at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

May 24 City Day At Fair?

Century 21 officials may be asked to honor Victoria on May 24—the anniversary of Queen Victoria's birthday—instead of May 21, when the annual Victoria Day celebrations will be held here.

Announcement was made last week by exhibition officials that May 21 will be Vancouver and Victoria Day at the fair.

But Victoria spokesmen were dismayed at the honor because it clashes with Victoria's traditional celebrations.

E. A. McFayden, vice-chairman of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, said yesterday he will attempt to have the Seattle date changed.

"May 24 is Queen Victoria's birthday—the 143rd anniversary—and it would be ideal," he said last night.

Mr. McFayden is seeking a meeting with Mayor R. B. Wilson to suggest the plan.

Hospital Drive Extended

Due to a slow start in public subscriptions, St. Joseph's Hospital building fund campaign will be extended for another two weeks.

The $350,000 public subscription campaign, first ever asked by the hospital, will provide a new $2,700,000 five-story, 115-bed wing to be built on Humboldt near Rupert.

The balance will be raised through pledges by four municipalities, $400,000 which the Sisters of St. Ann are raising by mortgage, and federal and provincial grants.

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

DIME MAIL: A friend of ours mailed off a letter to a relative in Quebec.

About a week later the letter was returned with an inscription that there was no such person at that address. The sender looked up the address again and saw he'd been right in the first place.

So he scribbled on the envelope: "Right address. Try again."

The post office returned the letter once again. He had to put another stamp on for the return journey to Quebec.

AROUND TOWN: Parting of the ways came for musician-builder Ove Wile and the local television station last week after a nine-month five-day-a-week show designed to bring fitness to flabby housewives. The end of the affair was precipitated by Ove himself when he casually mentioned he thought it about time he was paid something for his work.

Test-Ban Bid

Big Three Try Again For Treaty

... triumph

GENEVA (CP)—The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union announced willingness Monday to resume negotiations for a nuclear test-ban treaty.

Their decision to go back to the bargaining table on this issue was revealed on the fringe of a 17-nation conference sponsored by the United Nations to seek full disarmament.

Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Zorin told a press conference the Soviet Union wanted to talk again about a nuclear test ban. Spokesmen for American and British delegations reported their governments welcomed such a move.

Nevertheless, they have looming before them as large as ever basic East-West differences on enforcing a test ban. The main point is whether detection of violations should be done on a national basis, as the Russians insist, or by international authority, as the West demands.

CONCESSIONS

In the talks coming up, the U.S. and Britain are reported intending to offer some concessions to the Russians for simplification of inspection arrangements. Scientists and political leaders of the two Western powers have tried to strip away any inspection arrangements which now might be regarded as unnecessary in the light of recent improvements in detection techniques.

But, Western sources said, the U.S. and Britain stand as firmly as ever behind the principle of international control. Zorin told reporters his government favors revival of the test negotiations in the broad

Frondizi Takes Armed Action

Troops Called Out After Poll Upset

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentine President Frondizi Monday night ordered military commanders to replace the pro-Frondizi governors in five provinces where Peronist candidates won in a landslide election victory Sunday.

Informed sources said it is only a matter of time before similar steps are taken in five other provinces where Peronists were due to assume governorships May 1.

The takeover order came after Argentina's military leaders, bitterly opposed to followers of exiled dictator Juan Peron, pressed Frondizi for drastic action to bar Peronists from governorships and other offices they gained in the stunning election upset.

MILITARY CONTROL

The provinces put under military control are Buenos Aires, Tucuman, Rio Negro, Santiago del Estero and Chaco.

Announced along with the takeover decree was Frondizi's decision to accept the resignations of Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo, Health Minister Hector Noblia and Public Works Minister Jose Mazar Barnett.

CONSTITUTIONAL

Argentina's constitution provides for such intervention to combat subversion or a threat to the republican form of government. Frondizi has reluctantly used it on two provinces in the past.

The 55-year-old Frondizi faced a crisis potentially far more dangerous than that generated when, under prodding by chiefs of the armed forces, he broke diplomatic relations with Fidel Castro's Cuban regime Feb. 8.

UPROAR CAUSED

Monday's developments brought an immediate uproar from the Peronists, foes of both Frondizi and the United States-backed 520,000,000 Alliance-for-Progress program for Latin America to combat communism. Communists were allies of the nationalist-minded Peronists in the election campaign. Submerged politically since the decade-long regime of dictator Juan Peron was felled by the armed forces in 1955, the Peronists reacted angrily to rumors that federal intervention was planned in the provinces to nullify results of the election.

STRIKES PLANNED

Sixty-two labor unions which supported the Peronists declared they would strike indefinitely in retaliation for the military maneuvers. Together they claimed almost 2,000,000 members.

Peronist leaders called the election a rebuke for Frondizi's austerity policies and a mandate for recall of Peron, an exile in Spain. They want to put up Peron for president in 1964. Frondizi would not be able to succeed himself.

NOT COMPLETE

Unofficial and incomplete returns gave Peronist parties 2,533,363 votes; Frondizi's Intransigent Radicals 1,851,062 and the anti-Frondizi People's Radicals 1,294,194.

No party approached a working majority of 97 seats in the 192-seat national house of deputies. The Intransigent Radicals took 71, the People's Radicals 57, the Peronists 43 and smaller parties the rest.

Last Birthday?

TEL AVIV (AP)—Adolf Eichmann observed a gloomy 56th birthday in his Israeli prison cell Monday. It will be his last if he loses his appeal from the death sentence for his part in the Nazi extermination of millions of Jews.

The hearing on Eichmann's appeal begins Thursday.

Victory Hailed By Peron

MADRID, Spain (UPI)—Former Argentine dictator Juan Peron yesterday hailed the Peronist victory in Sunday's provincial elections in the South American republic as "a triumph of the Argentine people."

"DONE NOTHING" In an interview the one-time Argentine strongman said:

"I have done nothing, our people has done everything. That is why it is not my victory but the victory of the Argentine people."

DECISION AWAITED

Asked what his plans for the future were now, Peron said his supporters knew "what they have to do."

"They have proved their political maturity," he said. "I shall wait for their decision."

Peron, aged 66, did not seem surprised by his party's triumph. Some have charged that he directed election strategy from Madrid.

Solid Vote

MOSCOW (AP)—An electoral commission report said Monday 139,947,204 voters—99.95 per cent of the registered electorate—took part in Russia's parliamentary elections Sunday.

Speech 'Great'

Green Sparks Geneva Hope

GENEVA (CP)—A buoyant new mood characterized the Geneva disarmament conference Monday night with the unveiling of seven-point Canadian formula designed to break the East-West deadlock on disarmament.

In perhaps the first real show of enthusiasm since the 17-nation conference opened last Wednesday, Western and neutralist delegates warmly welcomed the detailed Canadian proposals for reconciling rival disarmament plans submitted by Russia and the West.

CRISP SPEECH

External Affairs Minister Green outlined the find-common-ground approach in a crisp, straight-forward speech that India's Foreign Minister Krishna Menon called "great."

Some conference circles saw the occasion as something of a diplomatic triumph for Green and his advisers. Adjectives such as admirable and constructive came from the British delegation, the Swedes and the Brazilians.

REFS SILENT

Foreign Secretary Rusk of the United States and his top disarmament experts, William Foster and Arthur Dean, came over to congratulate Green. So far only the Russians, Poles and the Bulgarians have been unenthusiastic.

Suddenly It's Spring!

Spring begins officially at 8:30 p.m. today. At that time the vernal equinox takes place as the sun crosses the equator on its way to the northern summer.

Dirty Birds?

Pigeon Potshots Split Oak Bay

Pigeon fanciers and pigeon haters took verbal potshots at each other during a public hearing last night as Oak Bay council tried to make up its mind whether to tamper with the municipal pigeon by-law.

Pigeons, said Harry Gregson, 2100 Beach Drive, are "dirty birds."

EATING UP GARDENS

"We've all seen what pigeons do to houses and monuments," he said. Besides, he added, there are the complaints about the birds eating up gardens.

Verne Davidson, 777 Falkland, couldn't see any problem.

"Raising racing pigeons requires thought and initiative and develops responsibility," he argued, adding pigeon fanciers allowed their birds only limited exercise and didn't allow them to run loose.

TRIPLE THE RULE

The first skirmish came earlier in the year after A. R. Cockburn, 1051 Hampshire, asked council to triple the size of pigeon lofts. His son raises racing pigeons. Mr. Cockburn circulated a petition which was signed by more than 100 residents favoring a bylaw change.

More than 40 people were on hand last night when council was handed a petition containing 63 names opposing any change in the bylaw. Reeve George Murdoch, considered fully.

'Use Dynamite'

Comrade's Evidence Commits Freedomite

NELSON (CP)—William Mooljelsky, former secretary of the ruling fraternal council of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, was committed yesterday to stand trial on a charge of counselling to commit arson.

He was committed mainly on the strength of evidence given by the Crown by 77-year-old Zakar Barloff, who was his associate for 12 years and the man he is alleged to have counselled to commit arson.

TRIAL ELECTED

Mooljelsky, one-time right-hand man of Freedom spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin, elected trial by judge without a jury. Barloff, speaking through an interpreter, said no Freedomite is permitted to do anything without the fraternal council's permission.

"I talked to Mooljelsky and he gave me certain instructions concerning fires. He gave me instructions to blow, use dynamite or fire."

'COULD HIRE MEN'

Barloff said Mooljelsky told him if he needed money "he would give me $1,000" and that "I could hire men." He said Mooljelsky suggested he recruit young men in the movement but this was not done.

Barloff pointed to the 52-man ruling body as being behind the Cominco power pylon bombing.

He said he was coming forward to tell the truth and that People abroad might think B.C. had really gone "native" if government ferries were given Indian names. Highway Minister F. A. Gagliardi, said yesterday.

"Already there is a feeling abroad that Canada, and particularly British Columbia, is populated by wild natives," he told the legislature. "People think we are living with our scalps battered down in case we lose them."

The minister was replying to a suggestion from Arthur Turner (NDP-CCF—Vancouver East) that the ferries on the Vancouver mainland run should be given Indian names.

"What about Tsawwassen?" asked Mr. Gagliardi.

"That's the only one we've got," countered Mr. Turner. "The existing names, such as City of Victoria, are hackneyed and we should change them... I'd even go that far."

Highways' Estimates Passed

The legislature passed the $77,400,000 estimates of the highways department at 12:00 this morning after considering them on Friday and at two sittings yesterday.

Today the legislature moves on to the estimates of Lands and Forests Minister Ray Wilton, which among other things are expected to spark a bitter debate on power development.

Gagliardi Refuses To 'Go Native'

People abroad might think B.C. had really gone "native" if government ferries were given Indian names. Highway Minister F. A. Gagliardi, said yesterday.

Harold Gregson inspects cinder 'fallout' collected during one night this month.

Pollution Foe Fed Up at Slow Action

A member of the city's air pollution committee angrily threatened to resign last night over lack of progress in ridding Victoria of smoke and cinder nuisances.

"I will resign unless there is some definite improvement in the situation," Harold Gregson, 474 Baymeade, said bluntly.

"I am just wasting my time as a member of the committee. Tests I have conducted prove the bylaw is not being observed."

"I joined the committee in the hope that I would be able to work more effectively to get rid of the air pollution in Victoria but things seem to be developing mighty slowly."

Mr. Gregson, who has conducted a two-year private "war" against the smoke and cinder nuisances, uses specially-prepared boards to check on "fallout."

The boards are painted with a mixture of white paint and lined oil which shows up the drying of the paint. The sticky boards are placed outside, paint side up, and cinders falling on them are stuck in the paint.

"I got the idea from the smoke inspector of another city," he said. "The black cinders show up well against the white paint."

"In September of last year a city official (smoke inspector Thomas Walker) predicted there would be a 80 per cent improvement in six months in the cinder problem."

"According to the tests I have made there seems much doubt that such is the case. I have heard complaints from other residents, also."

"The last time we had a meeting of the air pollution committee was Jan. 31, when we went on an inspection tour of Victoria."

"If the air pollution problem was as good now as it was that day I would be happy."
